Ask Roosevelt To Speed Final Action on Fund Bill for Relief

Delay Beyond June 30 May Bring 'Nasty Situation'

BEFORE HOUSE

Representatives Slated to Pass Measure Tomorrow Night

Washington —(AP)— Two high administration officials spoke out today against restrictions on federal relief spending proposed in the $1,716,000,000 house bill to finance 1940 relief operations.

Secretary Ickes said a prohibition against using future public works administration funds to build industrial plants in competition with existing private enterprise "dictates to municipalities what they should and should not apply for in that it distinctly traverses the democratic principles of government."

Colonel F. C. Harrington, works progress administration chief, said after a conference with President Roosevelt that "some of the things in the bill are going to be awfully tough to try to administer."

While declining to discuss details, he declared that as presently written the measure imposed certain time limits on the administrator.

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt was urged by his relief advisers today to try to speed up congressional action on the $1,716,000,000 relief appropriation under consideration in the house.

Although the measure is slated to pass the house tomorrow night, a White House official said there was a "possibility of a nasty situation developing" if the senate should fail to act by June 30.

Colonel F. C. Harrington, works progress administration chief, and Aubrey Williams, national youth administration director, called on the president today to express concern, it was reported, over the near exhaustion of relief funds for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30.

Should the bill be passed just before the deadline, officials said, it would prove difficult and confusing to administer at the outset because of the sweeping changes which—in its present form—it calls for in the WPA's administrative setup.

Time Chief Factor

Colonel Harrington and Williams, it was said, discussed the situation with the president in the hope he could do something to speed action.

A white House official said that while the house which received the relief bill from its appropriation committee yesterday planned to dispose of it in three days, the committee itself had received the president's request for funds nearly two months ago while it investigated relief machinery.

They said relief officials were seriously concerned over the possibility that the 2,500,000 or more persons now on the WPA rolls might have to be dropped unless congress acted quickly.

Leaders sought to pass the $1,716,000,000 relief bill by tomorrow night, giving the senate ample time to consider it before WPA funds run out June 30.

Broad-shouldered "Cliff" Woodrum, Virginia Democrat in charge of the measure, said at least four major amendments were being drafted by various members.

Representative Bradley (D-Pa.) called a group meeting to frame an amendment increasing the $1,477,000,000 recommended by the house appropriations committee and the president for WPA in the year starting July 1.

Proposed Changes

Other amendments to be offered would:

1. Seek to restore $42,000,000 cut by the committee from budget recommendations for the national youth administration, for which the bill provides $81,000,000.

2. Propose elimination of the $25,000 limit placed on WPA construction projects.

3. Provide for turning over relief administration to the states.

No Possibility of War Between Canada and United States, King Says in Radio Farewell Message

Halifax, Nova Scotia—(AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth today bade farewell by radio to Canada and the United States, which the departing Monarch termed "a large part of the earth where there is no possibility of war between neighbors."

"By God's grace yours may yet be the example which all the world will follow," the king said in a broadcast to the British empire and the United States in which the queen joined, making their first formal radio address.

The broadcast speeches were part of a busy "hail and farewell" visit to Halifax before embarking tonight for a brief stop in Newfoundland on their way home to England.

"I return to England with a new sense of the resources and of the responsibilities of our British empire," said the king, expressing pleasure that "we have had the opportunity, also, of crossing our border and paying an all too brief visit to Canada's great and friendly neighbor to the south."

"Pattern" To Others

"I go home with another thought which is a comfort and an inspiration.

"From the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the tropics to the Arctic, lies a large part of the earth where there is no possibility of war between neighbors, whose people are wholly dedicated to the pursuits of peace, a pattern to all men of how civilized nations should live together.

"It is good to know that such a region exists, for what man can do once he can do again."

Queen Elizabeth said she wanted "particularly to tell the women and children of Canada how glad I am to have seen so many of them.

"What has warmed my heart in a way I cannot express in words is the proof you have given us everywhere that you were glad to see us.

"To the people of Canada and to all the kind people in the United States who welcomed us so warmly last week—to one and all of this great friendly continent, I say thank you. God be with you and God bless you."

Their majesties spoke at an official luncheon given by the Nova Scotia government as their historic 9,401-mile tour across the continent and back came to a close.

Lewis Statement Indicates End of Labor Peace Talks

CIO Chief Charges Federation's Leadership Is 'Reactionary'

Washington —(AP)— Labor peace negotiations appeared to be at an end today after John L. Lewis, CIO president, declared further dealings with A. F. of L. representatives were impossible.

Calling the A. F. of L. leadership "reactionary" and working to "crystallize anti-New Deal sentiment," Lewis told reporters that CIO executives were agreed "they should go forward with renewed vigor."

His sudden pronouncement brought no immediate comment from administration officials, who had been watching the negotiations ever since President Roosevelt had urgently requested their inauguarations last winter.

Green's Reply

It brought a quick response, however, from A. F. of L. President William Green, who characterized Lewis' remarks as "intemperate."

"The leader of the CIO has again blocked labor peace," Green said.

Lewis' statement followed a long session with the CIO executive board yesterday. The board, he said, accepted without recommendations the report on the CIO-A. F of L. peace negotiations last March and expressed a unanimous view that peace was "a secondary consideration" to CIO's prime objective or enrolling unorganized workers into industrial unions.

Lewis' statement against the A. F. of L was his first public comment on labor unity since early in April, when he asked A. F. of L. conferees for an indefinite postponement of negotiations during discussion of a new coal mining contract.

Revenue Exceeds Early Estimate

Substantially Higher Than Figure in Roosevelt Budget Message

Washington—(AP)—Federal income passed substantially today the revenue which President Roosevelt estimated in his January budget message would be received in the fiscal year closing June 30.

Officials consequently expect the year's deficit to be about $500,000,000 less than the $4,072,259,000 forecast by the president in January.

This was the deadline for paying the second instalment of 1938 income taxes, and more than $400,000,000 was expected to be put in the hands of federal collectors.

On June 12, the last day for which accurate figures are available, the fiscal year collections already totaled $5,237,929,346, indicating, officials said, a minimum year-end total of $5,700,000,000. In January, the president anticipated only $5,520,070,000 in receipts.

At the same time, expenditures under the last congress' emergency spending program have lagged behind the budgeted $9,592,329,000, and on June 12 amounted to $8,625,932,915. Year-end special costs, such as interest payments, will bring the expenditure total past $9,000,000,000, however.

Nearly all branches of federal revenue have shown up slightly better than expected.

Senate Tangles Sidetrack Bills

Action Delayed on Measures to Reorganize Two Commissions

Madison—(AP)—A series of parliamentary tangles led by Republican and Progressive floorleaders prevented action today in the senate on bills reorganizing the public service and highway commissions.

The public service commission measure, however, was scheduled for debate tomorrow. The highway proposal may not be reached until next week.

Senator Reothe (R), Fennimore, author of the bill replacing the three-man highway body with a commissioner and assistant, spoke for almost an hour today until the time was reached to consider the other measure. His so-called "filibuster" prevented a roll call on a motion to kill the bill.

Senator Nelson (P) Maple, minority leader, sought unsuccessfully to force a vote, and postpone consideration of the public service reorganization for an hour. A series of clashes with Senator Coakley (R) Beloit, majority leader, was climaxed by a decision to take up the bill liberalizing police and firemen's pension systems and reconsider two amendments adopted yesterday.

Two Tax Measures are Sent to Governor Heil

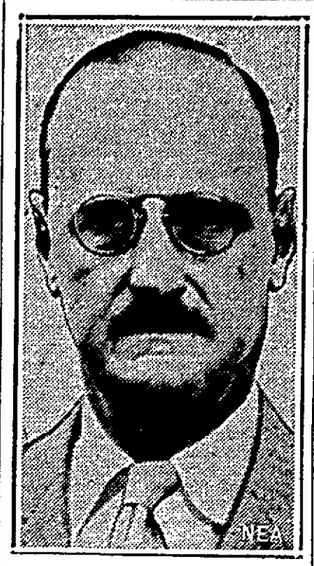

Madison —(AP)— Two senate measures dealing with income and inheritance taxes were approved by the assembly today. They now go to Governor Heil.

By a vote of 89 to 0, the house concurred in a joint finance committee bill authorizing the federal government to tax the salaries of state employes on the condition that the state be allowed to tax federal salaries within its borders.

The other measure, introduced by Senator Bolens (D), Port Washington, would allow deduction of federal inheritance taxes from an estate before computing the inheritance levy owed the state. The vote was 53 to 34.

Strike Is Ended At General Motors Plants at Flint

Martin Faction Returns to Jobs After Appearance Of State Police

Flint, Mich.—(AP)—Peace prevailed in Flint today following a dramatic early morning appearance of Michigan state police to disperse a milling mass of men still agitated over the brief and now settled General Motors strike.

Followers of Homer Martin in the United Auto Workers' union (A. F. of L.) which called the strike, returned to work at 7 o'clock a. m., joining members of the U.A.W-CIO who refused to recognize the strike and never left their jobs. Martin claimed a settlement agreement with General Motors.

As the day shifts began at the many General Motors plants here pickets were absent for the first time in a week and the tension was lessened. Flint police and Genesee county deputies were present but the state troopers, who put in a swift and psychologically effective appearance at 2 o'clock a. m. were out of sight.

The state police, 100 strong, cleared the streets in the vicinity of Fisher Body plant No. 1 and emptied the halls of both unions when it became apparent to Flint officials that a riotous situation was in the making. Windows in the CIO hall were smashed Wednesday and retaliation was feared.

Illinois Officials In Search for Man Missing From Home

Benton, Ill.—(AP)—Frank Hughes, 58, prominent Franklin county farmer, who was mysteriously assaulted and left tied to a tree near his home last May 12, was the object of a county-wide search by Franklin county officers today after disappearing from his home.

A note found in the mailbox at his home this morning said "I done a bad job before, we'll do better this time."

The note was scrawled on tablet paper.

Deputy Sheriff W. M. Baker quoted Mrs. Hughes, wife of the missing man, as saying her husband had gone out of the house this morning about 3 o'clock and had not been seen since that time. He had been ill of a stomach disorder she said.

After the assault a month ago, Hughes told Baker he was walking home after a visit from a neighbor and apparently had been attacked from behind. He remembered nothing of being tied to a tree where he was found unconscious by Mrs. Hughes, who had started a search for him.

Scandinavia Banker Arraigned at Shawano

Shawano—(AP)—Jerome L. Nelson, Scandinavia, former cashier of the Commercial State bank of Scandinavia, was arraigned before United States Commissioner E. L. Aschenbrener yesterday on a federal warrant charging embezzlement of $4,000 from the bank.

Nelson was released under bond of $2,500 for trial in federal district court at Milwaukee.

The former cashier was arrested on a state charge in April following an investigation by examiners of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. In the federal and state charges, Nelson is accused of embezzling $12,500.

Heil Predicts Early End of Allis Strike

Governor Secures Joint Conference Today to Discuss Peace Terms

NEAR AGREEMENT

Company Chairman Says 'Virtually All Major Problems Cleared Up'

Milwaukee —(AP)— Governor Julius P. Heil told striking workers of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company this afternoon he hoped for an immediate settlement so work could be resumed Monday.

Milwaukee —(AP)—Governor Julius Heil predicted the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company strike probably would be settled by nightfall as he prepared to bring union and management representatives together this afternoon in a joint conference to discuss peace proposals.

"The chances look pretty good to me that the strike will be settled Thursday night," Heil said after emerging late yesterday from meetings with company officials and leaders of the striking United Automobile Workers (CIO) union.

An optimtistic view of the situation also was presented by General Otto H. Falk, company board chairman, who said that "virtually all major problems are cleared up."

Union and company officials were to meet with Heil this afternoon in the Allis-Chalmers offices to discuss new contract proposals the union was understood to have made late yesterday. Terms of the proposals were not announced.

"Offered Nothing"

The governor took a hand in peace negotiations after rioting Tuesday had injured 13 persons.

Harold Christoffel, union president, when asked about peace prospects last night said the union "knew nothing because it had been offered nothing" and that "nothing is settled until everything is settled."

The strike, which involves nearly 7,500 workers, began Monday after the union and company were unable to reach agreement over issues including a closed shop, checkoff system, machinery for handling employe grievances and a blanket contract covering the company's West Allis, Boston and Pittsburgh plants.

The company ordered its office force, numbering about 1,000 persons, to remain at home yesterday, and no additional disorders developed.

Pick Jury for Trial Of Fond du Lac Youth Accused of Slaying

Akron, Colo.—(AP)—A jury may be completed today to try 22-year-old Ellsworth E. Medberry of Fond du Lac, Wis., for the hitch-hike slaying of John T. Gray, Colorado Springs salesman.

In initial examination of veniremen yesterday, District Attorney William B. Paynter indicated he plans to seek the death penalty for the husky Wisconsin youth accused of torturing and killing Gray after the salesman picked him up in his automobile March 10.

Gray's body, shot in the back of the head and his left arm wrenched out of its shoulder socket, was found March 13.

Two prosecution witnesses have asserted they saw Medberry enter Gray's car in Segwick, Colo., March 10.

Medberry's wife, Violet, and Mrs. Ruth Gray, widow of the slaying victim, sat near each other but so far as watchers could observe their eyes did not meet.

Germany Blamed For Kingsland and Black Tom Blasts

Mixed Claims Commission Reverses Its Decision of 1930

Washington — (AP) — The mixed claims commission today held Germany responsible for the Black Tom and Kingsland, N. J., munitions disasters prior to the entry of the United States into the World war.

The international tribunal of which Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts is umpire reversed its Hamburg decision of 1930 which accepted the "industrial accident" theory of the fires and explosions which rocked the New York metropolitan area in 1916 and 1917.

American claimants who sought damages of $50,000,000 from the reich, have contended throughout 12 years of litigation that the destruction of the Lehigh Valley railroad terminal at Black Tom in 1916 and the Kingsland assembly plant early in 1917 was the work of saboteurs in the pay of the imperial German government.

Accident, Reich View

Germany was equally persistent in her denials, advancing the theory that the vast quantities of munitions which had been destined for allied nations were destroyed by accident, not design.

On the basis of its ruling today the tribunal promptly granted motions for the American damage awards.

The commission's decision was on an American motion to reopen the

Asks U. S. to Buy Business Bonds

Witness Wants Social Security Funds Invested in Industry

Washington—(AP)—A business man suggested to the senate finance committee today that the government invest some of its billions from social security taxes in the securities of industry and business. The entire fund now is invested in federal bonds.

The witness, who discussed proposed amendments to the social security law, was Jay Iglauer, Cleveland department store executive and chairman of the taxation committee of the National Retail Dry Goods association.

Many aspects of the social security system, he said, were similar to private insurance programs, and he suggested that funds collected in taxes be placed in the hands of trustees for investment.

"Part of the money," he said, "could go into government bonds, just as does the money of private companies; part could go into a self-liquidating public projects and part into real estate, transportation and industrial bonds.

"The latter would produce an income to government from industry itself. Now the income comes only from taxes, which is turned over as interest on government bonds."

CIO Union Seeking Writ to Force End Of Alleged Boycott

New York — (AP) — The CIO's United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America sued the A. F. of L's International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and others today, asking an injunction against an alleged boycott of goods made with CIO labor, and damages of some $250,000.

Among the defendants were two of the federation union's locals, seven of its officers, 13 New York contractors and the National Electrical Products Corporation, a manufacturing concern.

The suit, the first of its kind here, may serve as a test case in determining how far court action may go in the settlement of jurisdictional disputes between rival unions.

The complaint alleged that members of the defendant A. F. of L. unions had refused to install radios and other electrical equipment manufactured in plants operating under CIO labor contracts. It charged, too, that the defendants instituted a national boycott against electrical equipment manufacturing plants using CIO labor.

No Compromise on U. S. Neutrality, 21 Senators Say

Believe Open Alliance 'More Honest' Than Sale of Munitions

Washington — (AP) — Twenty-one senators have signed a challenge to the administration declaring there can be no compromise on neutrality legislation which would repeal the automtic arms embargo.

Circulated in the form of a round-robin, the statement was disclosed authoritatively to assert an open alliance with Great Britain, France, Russia or Japan would be "more honest" than the sale of munitions in wartime to nations which control the sea.

Repeal of the arm embargo, which now is mandatory whenever the neutrality law is invoked, was recommended by Secretary Hull and was embodied in the Bloom bill approved by the house foreign affairs committee. The bill would permit sale of munitions, as well as other articles, to warring countries which obtained title to them in the United States.

Nye Heads Bloc

Signers of the round-robin were reported to include virtually all the senate's "mandatory neutrality" bloc, headed by Senators Nye (R-N. D.), Clark (D-Mo.) and Bone (D-Fash.).

"The United States can ill afford," the statement said, in part, "to place itself in the unbecoming light of a nation persisting in its talk about detesting war while at the same time scheming to get profit from the wars of other nations, or, while urging peace upon other nations, furnish the instrumentalities and munitions by which they may carry forward war. . . ."

Although the round-robin made no mention of a state filibuster if the administration legislation is brought up, Senator Borah (R-Idaho) said he thought there should be thorough discussion of the matter.

Oconto Falls—(AP)— Sheriff Joseph Foral announced today Casimir Czekalski, 19, had confessed shooting and seriously wounding his father, Konstanty, 58, this morning at the height of a quarrel over how much work the son should do on their farm.

At the Oconto Falls hospital to which he was taken, the elder Czekalski was reported in critical condition due to loss of blood.

Oconto Falls — (AP) — Konstanty Czekalski, 58, was shot and seriously wounded as he slept in his farm home near Morgan this morning.

Czekalski's 19 year-old son, Casimir, was arrested and detained at the Oconto county jail without charge. Sheriff Joseph Foral said Casimir had told him he and his father had been having trouble.

Czekalski told the sheriff that he was awakened by the shots and that as he raised himself on one elbow he saw Casimir walk from the room. Czekalski was wounded by charges from a shotgun.

Machine-Guns Face Tanks for Several Hours

LONDON ANGRY

Sends Strong Note; Britain Is Seeking U. S. Backing

London—(AP)—A tense episode in Japan's blockade of Tientsin foreign areas in which British troops with machine-guns and Japanese troops with tanks faced each other across barricades for several hours was ended tonight when both forces marched away.

A strong British note to Japanese authorities insisted on "immediate steps" to end the stopping and searching of British subjects by Japanese soldiers blockading the British and French concessions.

The opposing troops, patrolling opposite sides of the barricaded concession boundary, were separated by only a few feet until the British suddenly withdrew and the Japanese then quickly removed their forces.

Edgar G. Jamieson, British consul-general, in a vigorous protest to Japanese diplomatic authorities against the blockade, also charged that British shipping on the Hai river, Tientsin's outlet to the sea, was being stopped and searched by the Japanese and demanded that this cease.

Britons Searched

Jamieson declared that the Japthe concessions' exits were "discriminating against British from among the foreign community of Tientsin." Britons have declared that Japanese guards compelled them to strip to the waist and submit to search when crossing concession boundaries.

During the day British infantrymen with fixed bayonets were stationed at one entrance to their concession while tension increased in the crisis which brought on the Japanese blockade yesterday.

Prime Minister Chamberlain today indicated the possibility of eseking joint action by Britain, France and the United States if Japan used the Tientsin incident for more far-reaching demands against foreign interests in China.

He told the house of commons that a Japanese spokesman at Tientsin had indicated that the object of Japan's blockade of the British and French concessions was to obtain "a much wider form of cooperation from British authorities in China."

"It is clear," the prime minister continued, "that if this statement represents the views of authorities in Tokio the Japanese are using the incident to make demands wider and more far-reaching than the handing over of the four men."

Would Affect Others

Chamberlain referred to Japan's earlier demand for delivery to Japanese authorities of four Chinese accused of killing a Tientsin official and now detained in the British concession there. British rejection of this demand led to imposition of the blockade early Wednesday.

"Such demands," Chamberlain continued, "would raise important questions of policy in which other great powers are concerned no less than this country and the closest touch is being maintained with the French and United States governments.

"In the meantime, the British government are considering the situation created by the refusal of Japanese to accept a proposal for a committee of inquiry and by continuance of the blockade of the settlement."

Chamberlain said the situation was "obviously a grave one" but added that "I am not prepared at this moment to say what action we shall decide to take."

Spinster Murder Case Is Listed as Unsolved

Chicago—(AP)—The puzzling spinster murder case took its place today among the unsolved crimes listed on Chicago police records.

A coroner's jury decided yesterday the spinster, Miss Rose Neary, 50, was murdered "by a person or persons unknown."

The moderately wealthy woman was found dead in her west side apartment the night of June 2. The slayer had crushed her head and wrapped a radio cord around her throat.

Grand Jury Probe May Follow Sheriff's Report on Findings In Killing of Child in Ohio

Clyde, Ohio—(AP)—Sheriff H. L. Myers said today he planned to present results of his investigation of the cold-blooded killing of 10-week-old Haldon Fink to Prosecutor A. L. Hyzer for possible grand jury action.

The sheriff said all members of the baby's family had volunteered to be fingerprinted today "for purposes of elimination." The sheriff last night also took the fingerprints of Irvin Fink, the baby's father who was divorced last week by the mother, and James Powers, Fink's companion the night of the kidnap-killing occurred.

All prints, Sheriff Myers said, will be compared with those taken from the front door knob of the Baker house the night of the disappearance.

Myers and Coroner D. W. Philo concurred in a theory that the slayer "deliberately and immediately" suffocated the boy, whose body was found floating in a creek seven miles away, 12 hours after being stolen from his carriage.

Deputies were sent to drag the creek today for the blue blanket and a bootee which were in the baby's crib before the kidnaping. Meanwhile, the funeral was arranged for Saturday.

"I have not what I consider one convicting clue," the sheriff said as the intensified hunt went into its second day. "We have no good suspects but fair prospects."

After an autopsy last night, Coroner Philo said: "The lungs were not

Amnesia Victim Shows No Sign Of Recognition as His Father Views Him in Madison Hospital

Madison—(AP)—Ernest Johnsen, 22, of St. Paul, victim of an unusual case of amnesia, failed to recognize his father, Ernest Johnsen, Sr., when the latter confronted him today in the office of Dr. James Musser at Bradley hospital here.

The younger Johnsen, a student at St. Paul College of Law, disappeared May 21 and turned up the following day in Janesville where he was detained by Sheriff Owen Rex, who sought to establish his identity.

He was brought to Madison last night for observation. His father and a younger brother, recognizing a newspaper picture of the youth which had been called to their attention by a girl friend of Johnson in Minneapolis, arrived at the hospital today.

"Why, yes, that's my son," the elder Johnsen said when he saw the boy in Dr. Musser's office.

But the son only stared at his father, showing no signs of recognition.

The amnesia victim was detained at the hospital for further observation. The father and younger brother left after advising Dr. Musser they would return later.

"It may be more than an ordinary case of amnesia," Dr. Musser said. "There may be some physical basis for the youth's difficulty. He not only doesn't remember his parents or his early life but he has trouble remembering things that happened in Janesville two or three days ago. In ordinary cases, the victim cannot remember things only before a certain date."

Refuse to Exclude Married Women From Tenure Act

Schenk Measure Killed In Assembly by Vote Of 49 to 37

Madison—(AP)—The assembly killed by a vote of 49 to 37 today a bill by Herbert Schenk (P) Madison, excluding married women teachers from provisions of the tenure law.

Glenn H. James (R) Montfort, sponsor of a proposal to repeal the entire tenure act, urged passage of Schenk's measure. He said it would "end a lot of tension between school boards and married women teachers."

No one spoke against the measure, but the decisive vote indicated it had little chance of being revived. James repealer bill was passed by the assembly, but killed by the senate.

The assembly also killed, 56 to 36, a bill enabling municipally owned utilities created by referendum vote to operate in competition with private utilities without obtaining approval of the public service commission.

Andrew Biemiller (P) Milwaukee, argued the bill was "definitely in the public interest," that it would lower utility rates and attract industry to the state, but Reuben Peterson (R) Berlin, contended it would promote "a double line of telephone poles on our streets."

Other bills killed:

Establishing a flat $8 annual fee for licenses on automobiles and trucks; $3 for motorcycles and farm trucks, plus a graduated weight fee.

Requiring bus companies to maintain depots or waiting rooms in all municipalities on their routes having 5,000 or more population.

Providing for general election of county highway commissioners, instead of appointment by county boards.

The house passed bills:

Exempting nursery stock from the property tax.

Prohibiting sale of rosefish under the name of sea perch.

Enabling townships to limit the number of days for which its supervisors may achieve compensation.

Former Warden in Charges Against Department Head

Accuses MacKenzie Ordering Him to Transport Beer. Shoot Deer

Madison—(AP)— Assemblyman Anthony Gruszka (R) Mosinee, introduced yesterday before the house committee investigating the state conservation department an affidavit by Arthur Tic, of Shawano, former warden, charging irregularities on the part of H. W. Mackenzie, director of the department.

Gruszka said the affidavit was made part of the committee's record but he would insist that Tic either appear voluntarily before the committee or be subpenaed.

The affidavit charged Mackenzie ordered Tic to transport beer during the prohibition era to four fishing partiles at Pine lake, Vilas county, attended by MacKenzie and former Commissioner Louis Hobbins of Madison.

It also charged that Tic was ordered by MacKenzie to kill deer for former Commissioner Elmer Hall of Green Bay and Frank Kehl, a former assistant attorney general, and that wardens contributed to a fund to purchase rifles for Assemblyman Frank Graass (R) Sturgeon Bay and Senator G. Erle Ingram (P) Eau Claire for their support of conservation department legislation.

Denies Charges

MacKenzie characterized the charges in the affidavit as "pure falsification."

He said Tic was suspended from the warden's force in 1929, reinstated and later dismissed in 1932, again reinstated and permanently dismissed by the conservation commission on Oct. 18, 1935.

MacKenzie said the state bureau of personnel upheld the commission's action in discharging Tic.

Spokesmen for sportsmen's groups testified before the investigating committee that the department had been cooperating fully with conservationalists. Among them were R. J. Antes, Janesville; A. W. Mitchell, Delavan; F. B. Ernsperger, and R. O. Klenert, of Portage and Oswold Neesvig, Madison.

VICTIM OF AUTO STRIKE RIOTING

One of nearly a score of men injured in fighting between rival CIO and AFL auto union workers is shown here as he was helped to his feet after police quelled the fighting. The clash was in front of the General Motors Fisher body No. 1 plant at Flint, Mich. Twelve sergeants and 73 patrolmen were sent to Flint by the Michigan State Police department to aid in preventing disturbances.

Rest and Diversion Should be Main Objectives of Vacations

Madison — "Everyone needs a vacation to give him renewed strength and energy," the state medical society said today in a health bulletin urging people to give thought to the healthful aspects of vacation time.

"Many people have an annual vacation of two weeks. Properly used, this short two weeks' vacation can give them renewed strength and energy to give battle again to the complexities of our modern world. After a year's work at the shop or office, in the home or at school, everyone needs a period of rest and relaxation. Everyone who can possibly do so should take a vacation whether business is good or bad. In fact, a vacation is more than ever necessary in hard times, for the average person has worked a good deal harder and carried a great many more cares and responsibilities than ever before. A vacation need not be expensive; indeed, often the more money one spends on a vacation, the less real vacation one has.

Camps for Children

"Vacations are not for men only. Mothers would do well to take a vacation, if only for a few days, away from the children. Children need a vacation away from the restrictions of city life. Children's camps are often a good solution, offering a change for the children and a rest for the parents.

"Vacations demand careful planning, if they are to result in maximal benefit in improved health, increased efficiency, and enjoyment. All too often people return from a vacation at the point of collapse, utterly exhausted and unfit for anything. Be reasonable, physically. The value of a vacation lies in the fact that the body and the mind are given an opportunity to relax. A vacation can supply not only physical rest, but it can also give the mind a rest by diversion from pressing problems at home. Vacations like a good night's sleep, recharge the body and the mind with energy which will enable the body to build up a reserve. This reserve will be called upon all through the year. If this reserve is not available, inefficiency and ill health may result.

"Vacation time is here, so make the most of it. Don't try to cover so much ground that you return worn out physically, but choose a vacation that will relax you completely and store up new vim, vigor and vitality so that you may do your work efficiently during the rest of the year."

Gipsy Woman Tells Farmer He's Sick; It Costs Him $20

Sheriff John Lappen today was seeking a party of gipsies, one of whom allegedly stole $20 from Martin Smith, farmer near Apple Creek. The gipsy woman approached Smith and offered to help him after telling him he was sick. Smith said the woman picked his pocket of $20.

Germany Blamed For Kingsland and Black Tom Blasts

case and reverse the Hamburg decision on the basis of evidence that German witnesses had mapped out a dishonest defense and were guilty of "fraud, perjury and suppression of evidence" These witnesses included Count von Bernstorff, wartime German ambassador to the United States and Franz von Papen, former German chancellor and present ambassador to Turkey.

Germany countered with accusations of perjury on the part of American witnesses.

Christopher B. Garnett, the American commissioner, told the commission today the German commissioner had quit and returned to Germany. He said he had been notified that neither the German ambassador nor his nation, would participate in any further proceedings of the tribunal.

Justice Roberts then announced that since the Germans and the Americans had disagreed it was up to him to decide the case.

Reich Retaliation To British Ouster Of Diplomat Is Seen

Berlin—(AP)—An official announcement said today that the German government reserved the right to take retaliatory measures in the case of its consul-general at Liverpool, who was asked to leave England because of alleged complicity in a spying case.

The German statement denied that the consul-general, Walther Reinhardt, was implicated in the case.

(British Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday told the house of commons he had asked the German government to withdraw Reinhardt from Liverpool. He said that after studying court records he had to accept the conclusion that the German Consulate-general at Liverpool was involved in the case of Joseph Kelley, 30-year-old armaments worker, who was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment May 19 for selling Germany vital secrets of the factory where he was employed.)

"The charge that the German consulate-general in Liverpool had had relations with Kelley or had made connections for Kelley with espionage or intelligence organizations is false," the German statement declared.

"The German government reserves the right to take measures as a result of the request of the English government for the recall of the German consul-general in Liverpool."

Liquor Dealers and Chain Stores Oppose Legislative Tax Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Members of the Republican state administration, after contemplating the first impact of their $27,000,000 new tax program with public opinion, could congratulate themselves today that the effect was less fearsome than some of them expected.

Hearings on the whisky, wine, beer and chain store tax sections of the Heil tax bill were held yesterday afternoon. After Assemblyman Frank N. Graass of the finance committee explained the condition of the state treasury and the necessity for a heavy new tax program, objectors required only about two hours to present their arguments against the taxes proposed on their commodities, although legislators expected an extended hearing.

The assembly chamber was packed, however, and some legislators and observers predicted that the high powered lobbies of the industries affected would work on individual members in the weeks ahead. There was a notable lack of confidence in the legislature that the omnibus tax bill will pass in its original form.

Oppose Liquor Tax

Representatives of the beer, hard liquor and wine interests argued that heavier levies on their products would lessen consumption, work a hardship on manufacturers and their employes, and on the consumer, put some of them out of business, and might easily lessen the total amount of governmental revenue.

"No new tax is popular" observed Graass, delegated by the administration to speak for the program in introduction. He was the only proponent to appear all afternoon.

"But this bill comes from the administration, which when it came into office in January found the treasury depleted, trust funds spent, costs of government rising, relief and pension demands increasing, and revenue decreasing."

"We found the cupboard bare," he continued, hinting that a part of the blame lies with the previous La Follette regime. "We had to find new taxes to balance the budget. Public demands for funds are heavy, but the people don't want a sales tax. If this bill is wrong, unfair, we want to correct it, but I trust that those who oppose it will believe we're trying."

Arthur Levine, representing the Wisconsin Liquor Dealers Association, said that the proposed revision upward of wine taxes will lessen consumption, decrease public tax revenue, encourage bootlegging, and furnish an incentive to wine consumers to manufacture their own in their own homes.

Wesley Sturges of the Distilled Spirits Institute pointed out that the liquor tax increase proposed—from $1.00 to $1.50 a gallon—comes at a time of declining national and state income and purchasing power, and declining consumption. He said that the 1938 consumption of spirits was 20 per cent below the previous year and declared that the tax will be a tax on the low income brackets because 75 per cent of all whiskey sold retails at $1 a pint or less and is bought by the farmer and the workingman.

Buy In Illinois

Paul Jorgensen of the Tavern League of Wisconsin reiterated that an increase in the liquor tax is an invitation by the legislature to bootleggers. He pointed out that because the Illinois tax is only 50 cents a gallon on liquor, there would be a saving of $3 a case in whiskey bought in Chicago, if the proposed new tax becomes effective in Wisconsin.

The Tavernkeepers' spokesman also reminded the legislators that Wisconsin produces almost all of the rye used by distillers and much of the barley. Lowered production will therefore damage Wisconsin agriculture, he charged.

Walter Miller, representing "30 different tavern associations that cover the whole state", said that 14,000 tavern operators will be affected by the tax program, and that they will pay under the proposed schedules from $300 to $1,000 a year each.

"A great many of them won't be in the tavern business any more if this bill is passed," he said.

Oscar Toebaas of the Wisconsin State Brewers Association said that the brewers pay more taxes to the government each year than any other manufacturing industry. He said that the Pabst brewery in Wisconsin alone last year paid tax collectors a total of $6,414,000 and that the average smaller brewery pays out 75 per cent of its profits to the government.

No 5 Cent Beer

The big Milwaukee brewers sell almost all of their product outside of the state, and therefore would be affected by the proposed additional 50 cents a barrel tax on beer only negligibly; but the majority of the smaller breweries of the state would be affected drastically and directly, he continued.

The new tax would definitely abolish the possibility of nickel beer in taverns, he admonished the lawmakers.

The Milwaukee brewery workers' union also sent a representative to express its alarm at the prospect that it may be affected unfavorably by decreased production resulting from heavier taxation.

George Spohn representing the Kroger and Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, who pay half of the state's chain store taxes, pointed out that the chain stores buy more in Wisconsin because Wisconsin is a food producing state.

There was not a single objector to the heavy revisions in the income and surtax rates proposed in the Heil tax bill. Finance Chairman Otto Mueller announced that further hearings on the auto, theatre, and amusement taxes would be held next Wednesday afternoon in the capitol.

Ninetieth 'Schut' Will be Held Sunday at Hollandtown

Hollandtown—St. Francis society of St. Francis church will have its annual "schut" Sunday. Members will attend the 8 o'clock mass in a body and after the services all shooters meet at William Van Abel's hall and will march to the "schut" grounds a quarter mile west of the church. The Teeny Weeny band of St. Francis will furnish the music and the Rev. Cornelius Raymakers will head the procession to the grounds. Officers —Captain Richard Vander Loop; President Ben Vande Yacht and Vice President Clarence Eiting, will be next in line and followed by the other members.

The "Teeny Weeny" band will play several selections when the grounds are reached. Marksmen will be enrolled and a short prayer for the deceased members of the society is said by Father Raymakers. The pastor will fire the first shot at the wooden bird affixed to a pole at the height of 80 feet. Last year's king, Gilbert Broeren, will defend his title and be second in line to shoot. Other members shoot as their names are called from the roll. The shooting continues until the last fragment of the bird is taken off. The marksman who dislodges the last riddled piece is crowned "king" of the "schut" for the following year.

This is the ninetieth anniversary of the "schut" held here. In 1899 and 1924 the society celebrated the golden and diamond jubilees, respectively. The latter celebration was observed with pioneer splendor as all shooters and spectators were bedecked in pioneer clothes and wooden shoes as the members and shooters did in the early years of this "schut" tradition.

Every five years is an anniversary as that year's king is the "king of kings," who will reign supreme for five years until the next anniversary. This year is an anniversary year.

The "king" of 1938 wears an old dark blue coat which has been the king's coat since way back when. It is the second coat used since the beginning of the observance in this country. A score of medals decorate the coat of the king. Among them are the tenth anniversary medal of 1859, which bears the initials "H. V. H." Another medal on the coat was made by Albert Vanden Berg, postmaster at Hollandtown in the days of stage drivers and when the "schut" was in its infancy.

After the shooting a big dinner will be served at Van Abel's to all who wish to partake. Dancing follows in the afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Servie Schuh and daughter Mary Jane, Hilbert; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Vanden Eng and family, Freedom, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lauer, Appleton, were 5 o'clock dinner guests of Mrs. Minnie Brooks Sunday. Mrs. Brooks accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Lauer to their home for a week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Nic Fink and family, who have been occupying the Nic's Tavern, Dundas, are moving to the John Keller residence in East Holland, formerly occupied by Richard Vander Loop, who has moved onto his farm on County Trunk Z, east of Kaukauna. Mr. Vander Loop is building a fine new home which will be furnished shortly.

Miss Nancy Van Abel, a graduate of LaCrosse Teachers' college, LaCrosse, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Van Abel.

Road Department Oiling Program Is Well Underway

Stone Hauling on County Highways Is Getting Started

Outagamie county's summer oiling program is well underway, according to Arnold Krueger, county highway commissioner. The oiling work was started two weeks ago, but progress has been somewhat delayed because of wet weather.

Hauling of stone on county trunk roads is getting started and will be well underway within a week, Krueger said. Three contractors will be hauling as soon as hauling for farm-to-market roads is completed.

One county crew of about a dozen men, exclusive of truck drivers, the numbers of which varies from day to day as trucks are needed, is at work on State Highway 54. A second crew of about the same number is at work on the oiling job.

All state and county trunk roads in the county are passable, although some of them are rough, Krueger reported, with the exception of Highway 54. The crew working on this highway will be kept busy at least until the first part of August, he said. The state highway department has made an appropriation for fixing the road which was left in a deplorable condition by fast rising frost this spring.

Patching Work

Patch work on County Trunk Z between Appleton and Kaukauna, County Trunk K and State Trunk Highway 10 has been completed, Krueger said.

The county board last fall appropriated $40,000 for the oiling program this summer and most of this amount will be spent on re-oiling roads which were left in poor condition by spring upheavals. New oiling will be done as long as the supply lasts, the highway commissioner stated.

The oiling crew has finished six miles of work on County Trunk M and yestetrday was working on County Trunk T. Today work was to be started in the vicinity of Seymour for a period of about 10 days.

The oiling equipment then will be moved back to the county garage and work started on County Trunks E and A. The oil supply will be obtained at the county garage and work on other county trunks will be started as soon as E and A are taken care of, Krueger said.

Krueger said he expected that about 30,000 cubic yards of stone will be spread during the next two weeks.

Month Is Needed To Complete City Hall Remodeling

Workmen Putting on Finishing Touches in Old School Building

The interior of the old Lincoln school building is taking on a new appearance as the work of remodeling the structure into a city hall nears completion.

About a month or less of work remains before the building will be turned over to the city officials for dedication. The plumbing, heating and ventilating work, being done by the Reinhard Wenzel company, is scheduled for completion in two weeks.

Most of the rough work is finished but workmen still are fitting doors in the basement corridors. Plastering on the first and second floors is completed and painters are at work covering exposed wood on doors and windows.

The tile wainscoting has been placed in the corridors and lavatories which also have tile floors. Fixtures in the lavatories will be placed within the next few days. The metal rails for the stairways was installed yesterday.

The old entrance arches have been removed and new ones built to provide more support for the type of doors which will be installed. Office doors have been built but have not been hung as yet.

Geenen company workmen are laying the flooring in the corridors and offices of the first floor. Most of the floors on the second floor have been laid.

The remodeling work will cost about $79,000 of which the city will receive about $35,000 from the federal government. Nimmer and Lemke, Kaukauna, are the general contractors.

Flag Symbolizes Heroism, Kiwanis Speaker Declares

Lonsdorf Traces History Of Stars and Stripes In Luncheon Talk

The American flag is a living symbol of the democracy and freedom guaranteed by the United States constitution and of the heroism of those men who gave their lives to safeguard that constitution, John Lonsdorf said in a talk before the Appleton Kiwanis club at noon yesterday in the Conway hotel.

"America is a flag-minded nation," Lonsdorf said. "You will see the stars and stripes flying from the capital in Washington, D. C., and were you to go up into northern Wisconsin in the winter, you might suddenly come upon a schoolhouse in that remote region and there, too you would find the flag."

Tracing the history of the flag, Lonsdorf recited the resolution adopted by the continental congress June 14, 1777, which described for the first time an official emblem for the United States, one with 13 stripes and 13 stars. Up to that time, Lonsdorf said, and especially during the Revolutionary war, all manner and kind of flags had appeared. During the Revolutionary war, military units from various sections of the nation had their own flags. There was no pattern and combination of colors regarded as the official pennant.

The United States has a flag factory at Brooklyn that produces about 50,000 flags annually for use by the government, Lonsdorf said.

Baby Parade Is Scheduled Sunday Afternoon at Park

The 'most beautiful baby' parade, scheduled last Sunday in connection with the Good Will and Friendly Neighbors festival, will be held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at Pierce park, according to Mrs. Hazel F. Bannister, director of the WPA recreational program in Outagamie county.

Prominent physicians and nurses will judge the contestants. Entries may be telephoned or mailed to Mrs. Bannister. The winner will receive a gold medal with his or her name engraved.

A dance revue will be held in the park pavilion at 7:30 in the evening and a concert by Navotny's WPA orchestra will be given about 6 o'clock. The band will play for dancing during the evening.

County Too Well Off to Get Much State Relief Aid

load Would Have to Show Big Increase for Larger Share of Funds

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison— That Outagamie coun- may never enjoy very substan- al benefits from state relief funds those funds continue to be made vailable on an "emergency" basis the future was shown today in study by the state relief office of he respective assessed valuations Wisconsin counties per case of eceiving relief.

Using average 1938 figures, it was shown that Outagamie coun- y's relief load will have to triple r more before it approaches the urden of some of the poorer coun- ies in Wisconsin, and that it will ave to be doubled before it is as eavy as the state average load.

Because Outagamie county's relative financial position is so high, the limited relief funds available from the state will continue to go to the less favorably situated counties. For that purpose the relief department survey was made.

County Above Average

Outagamie county for the first six months of last year had an assessed valuation available for assessment equal to $144,680 for each person receiving relief in the county. That compared with a state average of $87,062.

How it compares with some of the poorer counties may be shown as follows: Forest, $20,609; Florence, $30,536; Kenosha, $55,703; Marinette, $55,210; Price, $51 977.

How it compares with the immediate neighbor counties in the northeastern Wisconsin area is shown as follows: Calumet, $313,678; Manitowoc, $127,108; Brown, $117,896; Shawano, $118,825; Waupaca, $113 658; Winnebago, $99,329.

It was shown that if Florence county were to support its relief burden without federal or state assistance, it would require a tax mill rate of 11.3 per cent to do so. In the most favorable situation of all counties is Calumet county, which would require a mill rate of taxation for its relief load of only 0.6 Kewaunee would need 0.7.

America Means Tolerance, Flag Day Speaker Says

Kaukauna Observes Occasion With Parade, Auditorium Program

Kaukauna—Tolerance, individual freedom and human democracy were characterized as fundamentals of the American spirit last night by Clifford Kalista, main speaker at the Flag day program in the civic auditorium. The program was preceded by a parade through the business districts.

"America, if the name means anything, must mean tolerance," Kalista began. A nation compounded as we are of almost every national stock, of almost every race, of differing religions, must be built on the cornerstone of tolerance, or breadth of understanding, or largeness of outlook and of generosity of viewpoint . . . If America is to remain great, she must be tolerant of other viewpoints and ready to assimilate the best of all. Herein lies her strength."

America, to keep true to her traditions, must continue to be a synonym for individual freedom, Kalista went on, describing the struggle for this right culminating in the constitution and the bill of rights. Between maximum state authority, such as the governments of the dictators, and maximum individual freedom, as under our constitution, there can be but one choice, the speaker said, as ours is the only form of government that permits spiritual and mental liberty, that permits and encourages teamwork among the groups that are necessary to provide security for all.

Human Democracy

'America must always stand for human democracy," Kalista concluded. "I mean that the American government must be a people's government, existing not to forward the fortunes of an aristocracy of rank or of wealth, but to work in season and out of season to improve the lot and raise the standard of living of the humble folk—farmers, mill and factory workers, storekeepers, etc. Or in the words of our president "'To provide a decent living for that one-third of our population that is still ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-sheltered.'"

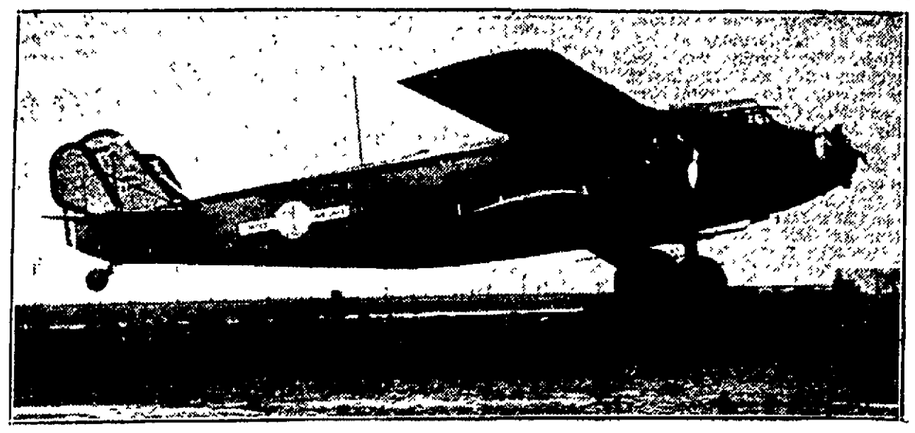

"America must always be dedicated to full equality of opportunity, so that native talent and native capacity may rise to the top, irrespective of rank or wealth.

"American democracy must include these essentials: Respect for the worth of each individual, willingness to work together to achieve common ends, belief that collective intelligence should solve common problems, and a complete acquiescense in the will of the majority, so that the first day after a national or state election we are all Republicans, or we are all Democrats.

The high school band opened the auditorium program, followed by the advancement of the colors. The local Elks' lodge presented its flag ceremony, with M. A. Raught chairman. The history and meaning of the flag were explained by B. D. Rice, Harry F. McAndrews and Fay G. Posson.

Community singing, led by Harold Hoolihan, was accompanied by the high school band. The singing of the national anthem closed the program.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbership on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Wisconsin Health

BY DR. C. A. HARPER
State Health Officer

Even the highest ranking states in point of health have their ups and downs among the various items that go to make up comparative standings, but some seem to maintain a steadier pace than others.

A month ago the state health department studied statistics for 1937 and by combining twelve points of comparison found that the healthiest states in the nation were Minnesota, South Dakota, Connecticut, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Nebraska, North Dakota and Iowa, in that order.

Since then the United States public health service has published provisional death statistics for 1938, and these were used for a second survey, yielding the following standings: Connecticut, New Jersey, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Massachusetts, Iowa and Rhode Island, in that order.

Among the first eight states, then, six appeared in both surveys while four succeeded in placing that high in only one of the two years under study. Wisconsin, in fourth place, was the only state to occupy the same position in both years.

The factors selected in the 1938 survey were general death rate, infant and maternal death rates, average age at death, population served by sewage treatment, and mortality rates from tuberculosis, accidents, diphtheria, typhoid fever, phneumonia, influenza, measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, syphilis and stillbirths, the last two items based on 1937 statistics for lack of later ones.

Wisconsin's best standings were made in typhoid fever, first place; diphtheria death rate, fourth place; maternal mortality, sixth place, and syphilis mortality, seventh place.

Cooperation Is Asked To Curb Car Congestion

Kaukauna — Kaukauna residents were requested today by James E. McFadden, chief of police, to leave their cars at home when attending the water regatta Saturday and Sunday. With hundreds of visiting autos expected this would greatly relieve the congestion, McFadden said.

CYO Squad Ties For First Place

Four Teams Now Sharing Top Position in Softball League

Kaukauna—The CYO team went into a tie for first place in the city softball league last night by taking a 5 to 4 decision from the Kaukauna Machine Corporation. A 4-way tie now exists for the top, with the Kaukauna Klub, Kappell Taverns and Mankosky Coals all undefeated also. After tonight's game but three will remain, as the Klubs tangle with the Coals.

The winners got off to a 2 to 0 lead in the first inning last night. Schumann singled, advanced on passed balls and scored on Alger's error. Giordana, safe on this miscue, came home on Promer's single, the first of three straight by the CYO first baseman.

The Machines counted in the second on three walks and a fielder's choice. The CYO took a lead at 3 to 1, scoring twice in the third. Don Biselx led off with a single and scored on Schumann's double. Schumann tallied on Promer's one base hit.

One in the third and two in the fourth by the Machines tied the score. In the former inning Steger singled and scored on Brem's long fly. In the latter Alger, who had singled, and Vanevenhoven, who drew a pass, scored an Vandynhoven's single.

The CYO pushed the winning run over in the first of the seventh. Phelan Femal singled but was forced at second by Carl Giordana. Giordana took second and third on passed balls and scored on Biselz' fly.

Biselx and Giordana pitched for the winners, allowing three hits, all off Biselx. Don Steger lost his third straight game for the Machines, dealing out 9 hits and striking out 2.

Clapper Flays House Dodge Of Tax on Congressional Pay

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—For a cheap tax-dodging performance you have to hunt a long way back to find anything that matches the action of house members in passing an income tax law for the voteless District of Columbia and inserting an amendment exempting themselves, as well as senators and all congressional clerks.

Raymond Clapper

A year or two ago the house was denouncing as unpatriotic those capitalists who dodged income taxes by incorporating themselves in the Bahama islands. These tax avoiders were told they ought to be patriotic enough to be willing to support the government. But the congressmen who enjoy a variety of special privileges here, including squatters rights for their automobiles in downtown "no parking" areas, don't have to incorporate themselves to escape the taxes which other government employees would have to pay. The congressmen happen to be lucky. They can just fix the law so it can't apply to them.

It seems incredible that a group of public men would have the brass to pull this sort of tax-dodge in broad daylight. But it was done right out in the open, though there was no record vote on the amendment

The District of Columbia has had no income tax law. Congress thinks very properly that it should have one. The income tax is a fair method of taxing according to ability to pay. Thirty-two states have state income tax laws. There is no reason why residents here should be especially favored.

So the house has passed a drastic schedule beginning at $2,000, with a graduated scale of taxes ranging from 2 per cent to 7 per cent on incomes in excess of $11,000.

Note this. When the bill was presented to the house, the tax was to begin at the $10,000 income level. It was frankly indicated in the debate that the purpose of exempting income up to $10,000 was to enable congressmen to escape the tax. But other members argued that it would look bad at home to be letting Washington off with so high an exemption.

So some other way had to be found. The bill was changed by lowering the exemption to $2,000. No allowance was made for a married man or for children, as is done in the federal law and in practically all state income tax laws. This measure socks the head of a family just as hard as the single man, although the whole point of the income tax is that it is supposed to be scaled according to ability to pay.

Rayburn Refuses to Vote Tax on Himself

But an exemption of only $2,000 would catch congressmen's $10,000 salaries. Sam Rayburn, Democratic leader of the house, vowed he never would vote for a local income tax himself and his clerks. His fight caused the exemption to be written in, boldly creating a special privileged class.

The theory on which congressmen declare themselves out is that they are not legal residents of the District of Columbia. Well, government offices are full of employees who are not legal residents here. But they will all be taxed. Thousands of them live in Virginia and Maryland. Many others keep their voting residences back home. Those who pay state income taxes, as do Washington employees who live in Virginia and Maryland, may deduct their state taxes from the tax due to the District of Columbia. If a senator or a representative or a clerk in congress pays an income tax back home, he could deduct that from the tax due here. But that isn't enough. Furthermore 16 states do not have state income taxes. Texas has none. That means that majority leader Rayburn would get no state offset against a tax here. Neither would his clerks. Hence the anxiety of members from states having no income taxes of their own to be exempted entirely.

One congressman, demanding exemption, said he was sent here by mandate of his constituents and did not come voluntarily! He was anxious enough last fall to get the job.

They All Use The Same Streets, Schools

Senators and representatives are here to work, as are the president, the vice-president, cabinet members and all other officials who will have to pay the local income tax. They all draw government salaries, are paid here and their work is supposed to be here. Congressional clerks are in no different status than thousands of other government employes, except that many are relatives of senators and representatives. They all use the same streets, enjoy the same fire and police protection, the same parks and public benefits send their children to local schools.

If congressmen manage to knock off some time back home each year, that's just so much chiselled out of working time here. If they can get done work and go away, fine, but nobody else is exempted from taxes if he manages to get vacation with pay for several months a year.

Hantschel Will Attend County Clerk's Confab

John E. Hantschel, Outagamie county clerk, will attend the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Wisconsin County Clerks association at Delavan Lake next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Hantschel is secretary of the association and has been for the last 14 years.

The convention banquet will be held Monday evening. Among the convention speakers will be A. J. Thelen, secretary of the Wisconsin County Boards association; Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state; and Paul N. Reynolds, executive director of the Wisconsin Tax payers Alliance.

New Measure Will Force Combining Of Rural Schools

Bill Represents Years of Effort to Consolidate Small Groups

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison— A bill recently passed by the state legislature marks the completion of years of effort of state and county school officials to consolidate small and inefficient rural schools, the state department of public instruction said today, as it announced that the legislation may affect 700 of such school units in rural Wisconsin.

The new law, now awaiting Governor Heil's signature, rewrites the system of distributing state and county school aids for the rural schools, their principal means of support.

At present, the state department explained, 1 room schools with 50 pupils operating efficiently are receiving aids on the same basis as schools with two pupils and operating with the greatest degree of inefficiency.

See Consolidation

By penalizing the smaller school districts through the subtraction of state aids, it is hoped that consolidations and suspensions of the small schools will be hastened without mandatory legislation.

At the present time state and county aids are paid on the basis of $250 each per rural school teacher, plus equalization aids.

Under the new law aids would be distributed, to those schools with less than 10 pupils, on the basis of $25 per pupil. Thus those with small enrollments would no longer be able to continue operating with state and county funds. If the school district officers decide to continue them, the school district will have to bear its own burden.

Explain Bill

The department explained that "this bill aims to make possible a 100 per cent apportionment to schools which are servicing the greater percentage of pupils to creating a better educational opportunity for the children who are now enrolled in the small schools".

Frankly, the state office declared: "It aims to make it undesirable for communities to operate small schools for sentimental reasons, for the purpose of giving jobs to relatives, for the purpose of furnishing contracts for fuel, etc., simply because of the fact that the state and county are furnishing the money."

County Officials to Hold Joint Conclave

The annual joint convention of county treasurers, registers of deeds and clerks of courts of Wisconsin will be held July 16, 17 and 18 at Manitowoc, according to Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, Outagamie county treasurer and secretary of the joint association. Each group also will hold individual conferences during the convention. Miss Ziegenhagen also is secretary of the Wisconsin County Treasurers association.

MILK IN THE AFFAIRS OF LIFE

From the cradle to the grave there is no single article of food so important as milk.

Every government should be greatly concerned to the end that milk be made available on every hand at a price at once so attractive to the consumer as to invite heavy consumption and so attractive to the producer as to decently pay its way.

It is the undeniable history of all human progress that lower prices will increase distribution, and at the same time, contradictory as it may sometimes appear, increase wealth and create always a higher standard of living.

But the government of the United States, forgetful or oblivious to these absolute truths, and in order to woo the farmer away from sound foundations sought to disarm even his suspicions by fitting him with short range glasses designed to make him blind beyond the end of his nose.

It therefore sponsored certain schemes, a web as sadly deceptive as a spider's, by which to create a certain higher price but forgot to erase unemployment which might have produced a higher demand, to say nothing of its high stimulation of milk production in the Southland.

Candor upon our part compels the admission that the government was aiming to help the dairy farmer. But the same candor upon the part of anyone else will support the conclusion that it simply didn't know how or made plans and designs as incomplete as the architect who furnishes blue prints of the attic and forgets the rest of the house.

And what is the result today? The farmer and the distributor, each entitled to make a profit, find it impossible to obtain that result. The distributor knows the farmer is being hurt but is mighty sure he is being hurt too. The farmer knows he is being hurt but doesn't realize so fully how the distributor has been handcuffed, black-goggled, ear-muffed and check-reined.

On the face of things it looks as though the distributor were obtaining too much but if one were to read just the list of new levies, hours, expenses, taxes, increased wages, and all the other burdens created directly or indirectly by the New Deal and placed upon the distributor's shoulder there might be at least some compassion for him.

We do not observe any cherry problem in the nation, neither is there any bread problem nor a doughnut problem. Looking the country over we cannot even find a beer problem. But if the government ever got into any of these businesses it would create problems and they would be eternal ones.

What are we to do in order that the great public, the millions who wish to live healthful and wholesome lives, may obtain Nature's indispensable foods at prices they can afford?

Answering that problem as of today we should say that cost of distributing milk must drop. But you cannot drop those costs unless you get the government off the back of industries. For every assessment, from income taxes that have been increased about 30 per cent, to excise taxes which is a noncommital word that makes every company pay a federal real estate tax, a federal personal property tax and even a federal tax on good will, clear through to double jointed and double-edged social security taxes, and including the penalties for using any profits to even buy a new milk truck,—these, all these, must be added onto the price of distribution.

If we were to be even a little more constructive we might add that the administration's present plans could be preserved provided a subsidy was created, a contribution if you please by the national government to the milk distributors to help pay those distributors for the burdens piled upon them. Borrowing another billion might do it—for a while.

But, heaven save us! We must stop or first thing we know we will be back in the horse and buggy days paying our respects to statesmen with calloused hands who built this country by resolutely refusing to even pleasantly recognize ideas that were imported from China with the bubonic plague.

GRAPES OF WRATH IN THE TAMALE

"So when a raging fever burns,
We shift from side to side by turns;
And 'tis a poor relief we gain,
To change the place but keep the pain."

The Mexicans have been throwing stones at objects that remind them of the United States.

One of these was an airplane that returned to Mexico the body of Serabia, popular Mexican aviator, who was killed when his plane plunged into the Potomac river as he was about to return to his native land. Rioters have also paraded around the American consulate necessitating cordons of police to protect American officials. Still another mob attacked school children of American residents and treated them to about the same sort of abuse and ridicule that is popular in Berlin against those of Jewish blood.

Can we in justice make protest against these recurring events? Have we done right by Mexico? Or have we in fact been a national Shylock, niggardly and mercenary with these generous hearted people of mixed strain and mixed language to the south of us?

We have carried many presents to the Mexican capital just as fearsome and inferior peoples have borne offerings to conquerors in the past. We carried nearly 400 million dollars into Mexico to construct their railroads and public buildings. They have taken over the railroads. No payment is forthcoming, no interest even for 20 years. No one ever expects any.

American farmers for some reason went into Mexico 20, 30 and 40 years ago and cleared thousands of acres. Recently this land has been grabbed from them without so much as a thank you. A large part of it today is growing weeds. Mexico has admitted that the value of this property is approximately 10 million dollars.

Not so long ago our oil companies quietly submitted as the properties they had developed were clumsily wrested from them, and, to make the pot a little sweeter, the Mexicans took their bank accounts, receivables, machinery, tools and the great stores provided for replacements. This property is claimed to be worth 200 millions. And English companies surrendered another 200 millions in the same kind of property.

In addition America has been paying a steady tribute to Mexico by purchasing from her silver at two to three times its market value. This provides the revolutionary government there with that high essential known as a steady income to pay its way from day to day. As our various contributions climb toward a billion dollars we have failed to obtain from the grim and stolid Mexican countenance even the flicker of a smile. Instead, these dark-eyed and genteel people resent our crude thoughtlessness at failing to really give evidence of broad and big-hearted generosity. For Mexico is in need of another 10 millions in cash to extend its rail line efficiently to the Pacific so that it may sell to Japan as it already has to Italy and Germany, the products of American oil wells. Its rage against us is therefore founded in concrete. What right had original American engineers to pose as railroad builders if they could not foresee the necessity of a line to the Pacific to sell oil to Japan? Or what right did they have to construct oil wells and fail to complete the industrial structure of distribution?

It isn't that Mexico is short-tempered with our noble President. Cardenas reads the voluble words from Washington and approves Mr. Roosevelt's statement that all our debts at home here are "valuable investments" so why not put some investments down in Mexico? Is not the country looking for investments. Only a man with sclerosis of the brain and a heart as hard as flint would mention payments, securities and expectation of interest from a people like the Mexicans who never pay, it is true, but who never deny that they may pay some day. Thus they keep their pride and their money too.

There is something cheap and scrawny about the giver who provides another with a suit of clothes, shoes, hat, socks and kerchief but forgets to put a flask of rum in one pocket, a purse in another, perfume on the handkerchief and a boutonniere up in the coat lapel. Nor is there any reason to believe that mere thoughtlessness occasioned this sooty, snooty trick upon our part.

More mobs will indicate Mexico's displeasure at us. The flinging of stones, particularly at children, and the screaming of mobs with clinched fists a la Moscow, are necessary to reveal how the blood has curdled at the way we have held back while our president has mistakenly said that we were really Good Neighbors.

A high-class and modern good neighbor should make more and bigger of those things blandly described as "good investments."

A Verse for Today

SEVEN DAUGHTERS

Seven young daughters like tall flowers growing!
That is God's gift to her! As she surveys
Her brood, she is certain the eldest is knowing;
The next one is lovely; the third is a glowing
And joyous young person who orightens her days

The fourth is sedate, and the fifth girl is witty;
The sixth like her father, is most dignified.
And the seventh and last born is happy and pretty!
Though Mother won't say, I am sure the whole city
Will tell you the Baby is her joy and pride!

Seven young daughters! A gift straight from heaven!
Seven straight shadows upon Heaven's wall!
And they are well-liked in the town, the whole seven;
But deep in her heart Mother knows her life's leaven
Is made by the last and the best girl of all!

Even before it was officially opened the Great Smoky Mountains National Park was the second most popular federal park in America.

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

New York—Mr. Murphy lives just up the street—Mr. Murphy, his wife and his little cocker-spaniel. The dog is eight years old and blind. The loss of sight is comparatively common in dogs, yet it seldom seems to cause them any loss of enthusiasm for living.

He is no more trouble because of his sightlessness than any pet. The master and mistress, however, have constantly to bear in mind that he cannot see, because any change in the arrangement of the furniture causes him trouble. If a chair is out of place, the dog will run into it, and always afterward he will approach that particular spot cautiously, even after the chair has been replaced.

The dog, despite his maturity and his handicap, is one of the happiest animals I have ever seen.

I doubt if I shall continue to be a suburbanite when my lease runs out in the autumn. It has too many of the disadvantages of the small town and few of its virtues. It has, for instance, the disadvantage of gossipiness. The good ladies get together on warm days with their babies, their dogs and their never-curbed curiosity, and chatter a lot. This is all right, except from what I have been able to eavesdrop the gossip is very wearisome There is very little sensational stuff. Of course there is the usual gossip standby — "It's-a-shame-the-way-he-treats-her," — with its variant — "It's-a-shame-the-way-she-treats-him." This theme song of idle tongues is never very interesting unless the gossipers are able to back it up with scandalous specific instances. They seldom can.

Another thing they gossip about is how terribie Mrs. X looks in that thing-she-calls-a-hat; and of course one constantly hears that old favorite: "She's-been-wearing-that-same-dress-for-three seasons-and-I-can't-understand-what-they-do-with-all-their-money."

Day after day this goes on, for hours at a time; year after year; and pretty soon people get old and die, and when you add it up you find that a big part of their lives have been frittered away in worrying about and talking about other people's clothes and private lives.

Men are worse gossips. The only reason they don't get such a bad reputation for it is that they generally don't have so much time. Men, too, don't seem to bother so much with trivial gossip. They go in for the bigger scandals. Blasting half a dozen reputations at a single sitting means nothing at all to a good gentleman gossip. It might be serious except that the men don't really care. If Bill Doe's wife gets a black eye from Mr. Doe, or vice versa, men look upon it as a nice morsel of conversation but really nothing to worry about. It has been my experience that a woman will confide quite freely to a man, feeling sure that her confidence won't be abused; but she's afraid of other women, even her close friends.

That is why I think I shall move back to Manhattan in October. I lived there for seven years, had the same neighbors on either side all the time, and haven't any idea to this day who they were or anything about them. If they made too much noise at 3 a. m. when I wanted to sleep, I let it pass, on the grounds that I might want to make some noise at 3 a. m. some other night. We all minded our business, and I have no doubt but that all people who mind their own business will go to Heaven, everything else being equal. I hope so, for it will be nice company.

MY YESTERDAY

Some people have written to express perturbation that in these brief accounts of Yesterday I rarely mention doing either any work or going to bed. They therefore assume I probably do neither. The fact is, there is seldom much interest in a Man at Work or a Man Asleep. If he happens to be a writer he is, when at work, a bore who snaps at any one who dares address him, civilly or uncivilly. That more writers are not socked on the jaw will always be a mystery to me. Man asleep, naturally, is hardly more entertaining than a wheezy gasoline motor. One of my spies has often reported to me that when I sleep it reminds him of the Normandie coming up the bay through a fog. I assume he is exaggerating. I try to be just as dignified in repose as at any other time. There are some people who can't differentiate between good, deep-breathing and blatant snoring. To Heck with them.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—There is an old story hanging around the Navy that officers who lose ships for whatever cause are doomed to oblivion, with no promotion nor new commands in sight, but our probing about official files failed to support the idea and official sources called it a myth.

Grover

We investigated the story because it had new birth in connection with the recent disaster to the submarine Squalus, commanded by Lieutenant Commander Oliver Negrin.

Previous experience indicates that if the board of inquiry finds him at fault he will have a hard time getting along in the Navy hereafter. But if he is found not at fault he probably will do better than average, for accounts available so far indicate he handled the surviving members of the crew in good Navy tradition.

There aren't many recent examples to work with. Besides the Squalus, four U. S. submarines have sunk in recent years. On three of these the commanders died, the F-4 at Honolulu, and the S-51 and S-4 near Portsmouth.

Commended and Promoted

The lieutenant commander of the S-5, which was rammed by a steamer off the Delaware Capes, is now a captain on duty in the Navy Department here and is a good bet for promotion to Rear Admiral.

With the craft down at one end, he assembled the crew in the other and directed that a hole be bored through the hull. His own shirt was hoisted on a stick through the hole and waived until it attracted a passing oil tanker. The tanker cut a bigger hole in the hull and the men were brought safely out.

Cook was commended and has since been twice promoted.

On the other hand, the commander of the cruiser Omaha which went aground among the Florida Keys some time ago was relieved of his command.

But disaster didn't follow commanders of ships lost during the World War. We traced three of them.

Capt. H. H. Cristy was commanding the armored Cruiser San Diego when it ran into a mine laid by a German submarine off Fire Island, New York. He directed the removal of the men then jumped into the water as the cruiser rolled over and sank. Later he was promoted to rear admiral and now is in retirement, living at the Army and Navy Club in Washington.

Other Examples

Another sample is David W. Bagley, commander of the Destroyer Jacob Jones sunk by a German submarine December 6, 1917, off the coast of Ireland. For his "efficiency, good judgment and courage" in the emergency he was commended by Admiral Sims, was steadily promoted and now is a Rear Armiral in command of the Mare Island Navy Yard in San Francisco bay.

Walter N. Vernou was in command of a destroyer patrolling off Ireland during the war when he sighted a torpedo headed for his ship. He put his ship about and had almost escaped when the torpedo leaped out of the water as if to take a look around, veered off on a new angle and hit the destroyer far aft, taking off 35 feet of the rear of the ship.

A brave gunner's mate, Osmond K. Ingram, seeing the approaching torpedo, raced to the rear to dump off the depth charges so they would not be exploded by the torpedo. He was blown to atoms by the blast. The destroyer was kept afloat by closing her bulkheads and she was towed to port next day.

Vernou was promoted steadily thereafter and now is rear admiral in command of the 15th Naval District, the Canal Zone.

Ingram is commemorated by being the only enlisted man for whom a destroyer was named.

THE TOWNSEND VOTERS

Editor Post-Crescent: — An editorial for June 7th reveals that the Post-Crescent is perturbed because "of the ten men who represent Wisconsin in the House of Representatives only two, Schafer and Thill, voted against the Townsend measure." It has reasons to be worried for after the November elections it, along with others, pointed to many of these men as the ones to lead us out of the darkness into the glorious sunshine of the "American Way." The fact that many of these men were not averse to bamboozling the oldsters —while at the same time denouncing administration fiscal policies— passed unnoticed until now. Is it so terribly wrong for Republicans to keep their promises?

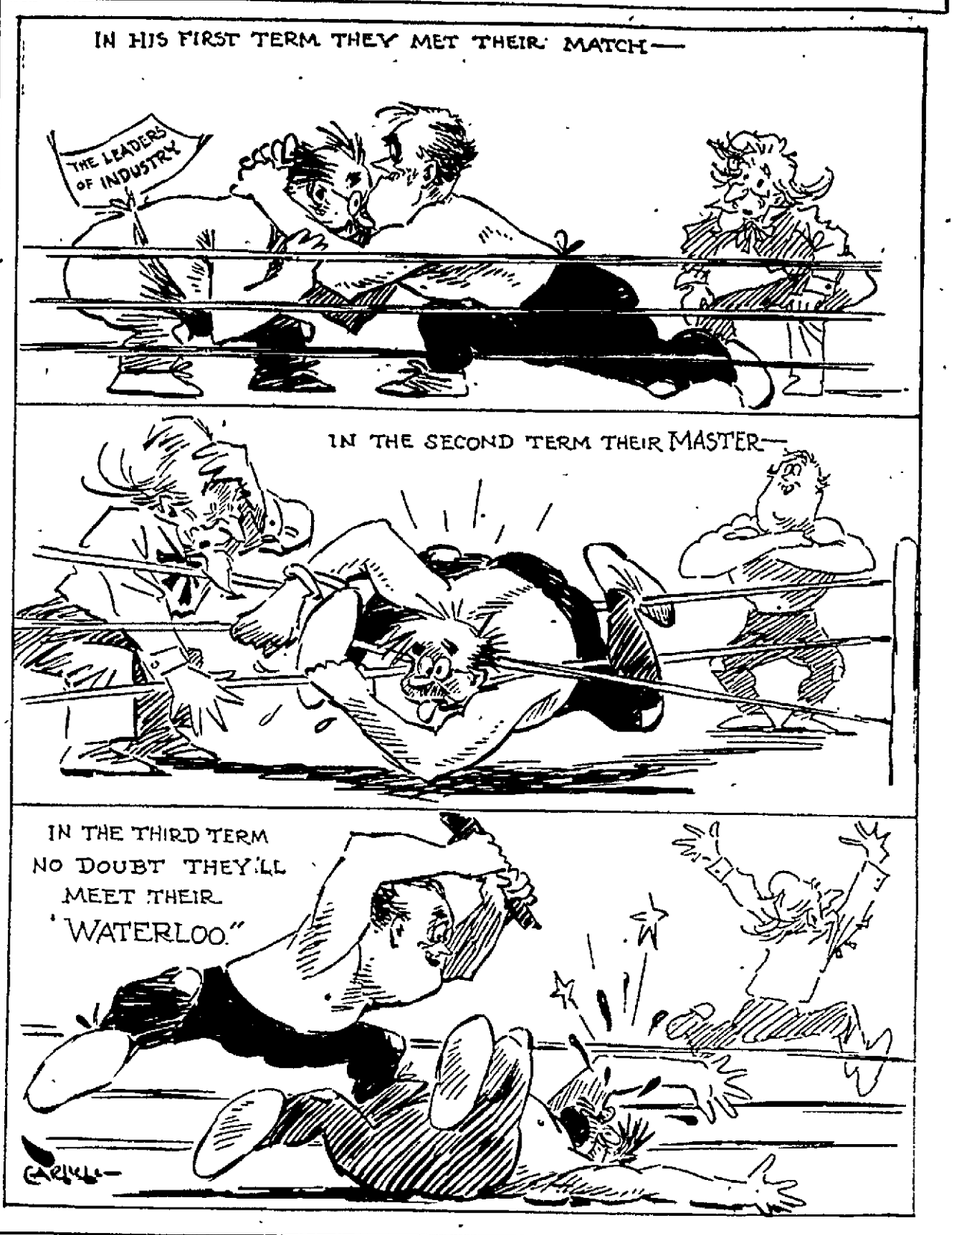

Belatedly the Post-Crescent writes "And the question is whether the last election brought us a sensible list of representatives or one gone clear loco." The paper, with its zeal for a balanced budget, should have had its answer weeks ago. What has become of the much heralded economy drive instituted by an "independent Congress," when this same Congress merrily increases an already inflated budget by nearly a billion dollars? It must be especially troubling when this increase comes with the help of members of a party which has finished mourning "National Debt Week." Like the fighter who leaves his fight in the gym, the economizers leave theirs in the Congressional Record.

The fact that many of the votes for the plan were cast by new members should mean something. Possibly the country will be fed up with Roosevelt's reforms by 1940, but that doesn't necessarily mean that it will accept the reaction which has engulfed Minnesota, Michigan, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin. It is possible that a majority will feel we haven't gone far enough and vote for a Republican Party which — after ten long, lean years — will realize it must have a program, and offer something which outdoes the New Deal. The latter is not very probable for the Republicans are not noted for innovations Their specialty seems to be — if one may judge by the results in the above mentioned states — to tear down the walls and then sit tight. Still, when it is possible "To see 33 per cent of the Republicans in the House" vote for our number one crackpot scheme, anything can happen, and probably will.

We have a "business administration" in Wisconsin and the results are far from inspiring, even to the Post-Crescent. If the party does even better nationally and lands a like administration in Washington, and if they stand by their promises —as in l'affaire Townsend — the Post-Crescent will have had the satisfaction of wondering if our representatives had "gone clear loco" two years before they finally did.

ROGER SLOAN.

INCIDENTALLY, WONDER WHAT'S PLANNED FOR THE FOURTH AND FIFTH TERMS?

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Senator Bolens wants the legislature to take a rest of a couple of months while the people of Wisconsin decide some of the fundamental public problems of the day, including how to finance the big state university, the apportionment of tax receipts between the state and local government, the question of giving the legislature control of $34,000,000 annual receipts in motor taxes and power to use them for other purposes than highways when the public welfare dictates it, and a couple of other questions.

Wyngaard

It can confidently be said that Bolens' idea is not very likely to be carried, for political and practical reasons:

1. Governor Heil, as the titular head of the Republican party, is unlikely to let himself be steered by the man who ran for governor against him as a Democrat last fall.

2. A popular vote, within three weeks as Bolens proposes, on questions with such broad implications, is manifestly futile because the voters in that space of time cannot acquaint themselves with the subjects which will be covered in the canvass.

TOO INTRICATE

Bolens' study of the state government and its finances and his program for reform required 30 pages to publish, pages densely packed with figures which make the reader's head swim so that he has to go back and re-read them in order to understand.

The fact is that the state government, and its connections in a thousand ways with local government, is so intricate that even experienced legislators are often on unfamiliar ground.

A proposition to let the voters decide the question for them looks like an admission by the legislators that they don't know how, or don't dare. The average citizen is likely to remember, however, that they knew the answers when they ran for election last fall.

Daily, for more than three years, this correspondent has been studying the state government in his capacity as a newspaper reporter. Yet some of the problems of that government are as mystifying as ever. And he is a citizen and voter too.

UNIVERSITY PLAN

Senator Bolens ambitious report, withal, gives plenty of assurance that the astute old veteran is still alert and able to produce new approaches to old and baffling problems.

Bolens set out to study the problem of the University of Wisconsin. His conclusion, that the future of the University of Wisconsin, because of the rival claims of new and powerful pressure groups for public funds, looks dark sounds suspiciously like President Dykstra's own conclusion.

The senator's proposal to guarantee future revenue for the university by a deferred tuition plan is likely to get more support than other parts of the Bolens report. While it would not solve the immediate problem of university support, it could well be incorporated as a plan for the future. Bolens argues that it is not a proper public policy to force 1,200,000 earning citizens to support a gigantic and expensive public institution for the economic benefit of a few. Since the university is an instrumentality to increase their economic level, the graduates ought to be assessed, upon their reaching of that higher earning power, for the funds which the public provided to get it for them.

Viewed from all angles, it is safe to conclude that that particular part of the Bolens report will be heard from in the future.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

STOMACH

A brown lad, a double for Adonis, drove a brewery truck. He was a jolly, good natured type and never could say no. How much beer he consumed in the course of a day's work was always rather vague. But periodically I attended him for attacks of "indigestion." On these occasions, my hand to it, the lad would collapse utterly and at a single siphonage we would decant a gallon of beer from his stomach. Within an hour or so sometimes he would voluntarily boop up another quart or more, just to show he could take it. What ailed the lad was gastrectasia. That means stretched, dilated, enlarged, ballooned stomach. Probably his stomach was permanently or chronically dilated. The periodic seizures were due to acute or sudden dilatation.

At that time practically nothing was known about the nature or cause of chronic gastrectasia or acute gastrectasia. A standard textbook of the time gave the suggestion that one cause of chronic enlargement or stretching of the stomach was "relative or absolute insufficiency of the muscular power of the stomach, due on the one hand to repeated overfilling of the organ with food and drink, and on the other to atony (which means loss of tone) of the coats induced by chronic inflammation or degeneration of impaired nutrition . . ."

To that we can say today "Pretty good, Johnny, but that ain't the way we see it."

Today we would begin with impaired nutrition. In short it is the fundamental cause of the "relative or absolute insufficiency of the muscular power of the stomach" and the intestine, which is almost universal and is expressed in the complaints "weak digestion" or "poor assimilation" and "constipation." The specific nutritional deficiency concerned is lack of enough vitamins in the everyday diet of the great majority of people; secondarily, perhaps, as a direct consequence of lack of vitamins, there is faulty assimilation or utilization of minerals, as will appear later.

Many individuals who have followed the rejuvenation diet (as given in "The 7 Keys to Vite," 70-page 25-cent booklet on what it takes to remain young and keep well) for a month or two notice that they no longer crave such quantities of refined carbohydrate items as they did when they were training for premature old age, and they ask whether the stomach has shrunk.

The stomach has not shrunk. But with increased tone or elasticity or resiliency in the muscle coat of the stomach and intestine, the agreeable sense of fulness and satisfaction which normally or instinctively tell animals or man when to stop eating comes when a reasonable amount of food has been taken, that is all.

The little lesson in physiology I hope every reader will get from this is as practical as it is logical. If you eat more than is necessary for maintenance of normal nutrition, as evidenced by the superfluous flesh you carry, the first corrective step you should take is to boop your daily intake of the key vitamins, namely, vitamin B complex and sunshine vitamin D.

I've just been sittin' here lookin' at the advertisements in this newspaper and I'm tellin' you things are gettin' mighty modern. I've jus' been admirin' the picture of the latest stream-lined automobile. Honest, it's so futuristic it'd almost be a pleasure to be knocked down by it.

I went down to the Van Buren general store one mornin' and found Grandpaw Snazzy on a pair of crutches, playin' checkers. I said, "Grandpaw, what's happened to you? Your back is all scrunched up."

He said, "Robin, I think I busted by back-bone. Here lately your Grandmaw has been buyin' a lot of this modernisti furniture.... and just this mornin' I found out that for the last four nights I've been sleepin' on the book-case!"

Little Hope for Balanced Budget Seen by Lawrence

Groups Holding Political Power Won't Permit Drastic Expense Cuts

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—For many months, the American people have been discussing "relief," its waste, its inefficiency and its effect on the morale of the recipients.

Lawrence

Today, the house committee on appropriations, led by men who have been severely critical of the WPA, has made its recommendations, and so many changes and improvements are included as to bring from Republican members of the committee some comments of approval and endorsement.

But the sum total of the bill is about $1,716 000,000, which is to be expended for the period beginning July 1 next and ending June 30, 1940. This is, to be sure, about $733,000,000 less than the year before, but it is impossible at this time to estimate whether the full amount will subsequently be increased or diminished.

The fact remains that, after all the talk about "balancing the budget" by eliminating so-called waste in relief, the cut is relatively little. The deficit of the federal government for the present fiscal year will run about $3,500,000,000, so even if not a penny was appropriated for relief, the deficit would still be enormous.

It is this sensational aspect of federal finances which is generally overlooked by the critics or those who demand a balanced budget. Certain items have grown so large that their elimination has become a political impossibility. Even the Republicans will not be found lined up solidly against the relief bill, though, to be sure, they will argue that they want the relief problem turned back to the states.

3-Man Board

Many provisions are contained in the new bill which are designed to cut waste and racketeering. The idea of a 3-man board instead of a single administrator has been incorporated in the measure on the theory that this will meet much of the unfavorable comment about the handling of relief funds.

The objections to the WPA have been that it has made possible political manipulation. The law is to be tightened up to prevent political activity wherever possible. But the habit of looking toward the administration in power for favors will give the Democrats the political advantages, no matter how strict are the rules against political activity.

The fact that year after year about a billion and a half dollars is expended for relief and that nobody in congress has offered a comprehensive plan for eliminating relief is one of the tragedies of present-day government. The opposition in congress has given no alternative plan that could command support from even the independents in the Democratic ranks. Plenty of proposals have been suggested, but they are in a large sense political because they are really plans in avoidance. To turn relief back to the states and cities would still mean continuing expense to the federal government. Some substantial sums might be saved and these economies should unquestionably be made, but merely to pass the buck to the states is not to solve the relief problem.

Evading Issue

The truth of the matter is that all parties are evading the main issue—what is causing the fundamental economic maladjustment in America? One school of thought insists it is entirely local, that, if the administration were changed, taxes reduced, subsidies withdrawn, labor put in a position of responsibility under a new law, all would be well.

Another school of thought insists this would merely mean deflation and disorder and that the answer lies in improving world conditions and increasing the markets for American products.

It isn't at all necessary to decide between the two schools of thought, because the political power at the moment is held by groups and blocs which will not permit a balanced budget or a withdrawal of subsidies or favors granted by a paternalistic government. So long as these groups have the votes inside and outside of congress, there will be relatively little change in the picture.

The Republicans, of course, are convinced that they will be able to win the 1940 elections by amassing all the groups which are adversely affected by administration policies. But, if the Republicans were to announce now a program of cutting the relief expenditures and the subsidies down to a point where the budget might be balanced, they would lose political support they now are counting on. Anybody who thinks America is headed for a balanced budget or a curtailment of spending needs only to read how one of the most powerful groups in American politics—the CIO—has just announced through its executive board that it will join with old age pension groups, presumably the Townsendites, for bigger and bigger pensions. Little hope of a balanced budget or a diminished tax burden may be derived from such developments.

Father McKeough Honored at Party

Priest Leaves Chilton After Serving Congregation for 7 Years

Chilton — A farewell party was held in St. Rita's hall Tuesday evening for the Rev. F. M. McKeough, who left Wednesday for Oshkosh to assume his duties as pastor of St. John's church, after having served seven years at St. Augustine's.

Jerome Fox presided as toastmaster, who expressed in behalf of the congregation the esteem in which Father McKeough has been held here, not only by members of his own parish but by the community generally. Cornelius Leahy followed with a presentation of a marionette dance, and Leo Keuler, youngest member of St. Augustine school, gave his version of the regard in which Father McKeough has been held by the younger members of his flock. Edward Eick, speaking in behalf of the choir, commended Father McKeough for his contribution to the development of the choir. Following his talk, the choir sang "Good-Bye and God Bless You."

F. J. Flanagan praised the service rendered to the congregation by Father McKeough, and introduced Luke Owens as the oldest member of the congregation, who presented to the retiring pastor a purse which had been donated by members of the congregation.

Father McKeough thanked his parishioners for their evidence of loyalty and devotion. Referring to a comment made by Mr. Fox in his introductory remarks to the effect that "we do not think there can be any promotion from St. Augustine's" Father McKeough said, "that is my sentiment too. There is no congregation of any size in any place that has as much talent as is found here. The spirit of the congregation is not the result of a few years of growth but the product of 80 years of loyalty." He thanked the choir for the splendid work it had done, and also the officials of the church. He concluded by saying "the last favor I ask of you is that the gathering here tonight will be equalled or bettered at a reception for my successor. Show him the same loyalty and devotion you have shown me."

The program was followed by a lunch served by the Christian Mothers of the church. The lunch included a birthday cake, the occasion being the birthday of Father McKeough.

Tavern Licenses Up At Board Meeting

Kimberly—The village board will hold a special meeting Thursday evening to consider applications for tavern licenses. All tavernkeepers will attend. Carl Lemmers will take over the bowling alleys and tavern on Main street on July 1. Joseph Coppens was the proprietor for the last two years.

Relief costs in the village last month totaled $339.81 after a $99.76 county refund was deducted. During the month there were 12 cases on relief while this month shows 10. The report was issued Wednesday evening by the relief committee, H. J. Kiisdonk, chairman and Leonard Goffard. Items included: Room and board, $75; rent, $62; meats, $60.91; groceries, $191.11; milk, $15.12; clothing, $6.06; light and water, $3.12; medical, $20.50 and miscellaneous, $4.35.

The Fleur-de-Lis club which entertains weekly at members' homes, has discontinued these meetings during the summer months.

Mrs. Jerry Kokke and daughter Janice of Detroit, Mich., who have been visiting relatives here during the last two weeks, returned to her home Wednesday.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 heart	2 clubs	Double
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

I have reported this remarkable bidding exactly as it took place, which does not mean that I approve it. To begin, South's correct opening bid was not one diamond, but one heart. Indeed, he could not have been greatly criticized for passing on the first round since his honors added up to exactly two and one-half honor tricks only by including the plus values. West probably chose to overcall with a heart instead of a spade so as to leave the latter as a refuge in case the heart bid were doubled. North's two clubs was a bit unusual, but really not bad since any bid that kept the bidding open could be corrected later. South's two no trump bid, as a rescue of the two club double, was very bad. Since he already had bid his diamonds, and hearts had been bid over him, the only thing left was to pass, and North then could have instituted the no trump, even without a stopper in hearts.

However, all this is beside the point — it is the play that we must examine. West, placing great faith in his partner's two club double, opened the club nine. Dummy played the ten, East properly refused to cover, and South's blank ace was driven out. A low diamond was led and the jack was finessed, East winning with the king. On a heart return, declarer properly put in the jack and West won. Now another club lead was taken by East with the jack, and on this trick South properly discarded a low spade. But when East then cashed the club king, declarer sealed his own doom by letting go another spade. Now a heart return had to be taken with the ace, since to pass it would have meant the fifth trick for the defenders. Dummy was entered with a diamond and the good club trick was cashed. Then the rest of the diamonds were run off, but there was no way for declarer to win his ninth trick since he now was down to the blank spade queen. All West had to do was hold on to his high heart and blank the spade king.

Note the vast difference that would have been made by declarer's holding onto a guard for his spade queen. After East cashed the club king, the heart return would be won with the heart ace and, as before, dummy would be entered with a diamond. On the good club trick, declarer would discard his last heart, then would return with the diamond and continue with diamonds until West was in very bad shape. Declarer's last three cards would be a diamond and the Q-6 of spades. West would have the K-8 of spades and the king of hearts. Dummy would hold the A-10 of spades and the seven of hearts. East's cards would be unimportant. The last diamond now would put West to rout. If he let go the low spade, dummy would discard the heart seven. Then a low spade to the ace would drop the king and establish the queen. On the other hand, if West held his spades and discarded the heart king, dummy would let go the spade ten and preserve the heart seven as the fulfilling trick.

My Neighbor Says—

Turnips must be thinned before they begin to form. The early turnips are round and flat. They do not grow well if crowded.

If thinning is postponed until the roots begin to form the growth of all is checked and the ravages of worms, which are always ready to feed on turnips, are likely to be fatal. If the young plants are pulled up so they stand four inches apart in the row in a remarkably quick time they will be large enough to use.

Advises Women That Careers And Marriage Don't Mix Well

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl of 27 with a good job as a nurse in a large hospital, and I love my work. I am very much in love with a doctor who has asked me to marry him, but he insists that I must give up my work if I do. I love him dearly, but I just can't bear to give up my career. Please tell me what to do. PUZZLED.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer:

Decide which one means the most to you and take that one. And stick to your choice after you have made it. If you marry the doctor, make him feel that he is more to you than anything else in the world. Don't be one of the wives who assume a martyr attitude and talk about the sacrifice they made when they married.

But if you espouse the career instead of the doctor, do it whole-heartedly and without regrets. And don't, when you have got sick of smelling ether and nursing fractious patients, beat on your breast and lament about the loneliness of your life and weep on everybody's shoulders because you haven't husband and children and a home of your own.

It is one of the misfortunes of being a woman that we can't have our wedding cakes and eat them, too, as men do. When it comes to marriage men can just add it to their other blessings and be the better lawyer or doctor or carpenter for having a home and a wife to take care of them and children to work for. But a woman who has fitted herself for any profession or who is engaged in any work in which she is interested and has made a success can seldom have both marriage and her job. Nearly always she has to choose between them for the inescapable reason that she can't be two people in the same place at the same time. And if she tries it she usually falls at both.

I think that a man asks no more than is fair when he demands that his wife give up her career when she marries him if he is able to support her, because being a wife and mother and making a home is enough work for any woman to do and requires all the intelligence and energy that she possesses.

So does any job in which a woman is efficient enough to make a success. She must give to that the best that is in her. She must put her heart and her head and her hands in it. She must give it her strength, her thoughts, her enthusiasm, her tact, her patience, and it is inevitable that the end of the day should leave her exhausted, nerve-fretted, too tired to make herself an agreeable companion to her husband and too worn out to clean her house and go into the kitchen and get a meal.

If you, for instance, continue to follow your career as a nurse, what time would you have to give to your husband and your home? Who would look after him when you were on night duty? And when you had children, who would care for them while you were taking care of somebody else's babies? It just doesn't work. When a man marries he wants a home. He wants to be his wife's first care, not her job. He doesn't want to play second fiddle to a store or office.

He doesn't want to have to batch while she is off lecturing or giving concerts or what not. He wants HER at home. He wants to come home to a lighted house with a woman in it who is rested and waiting for him with a glad welcome and a smoking dinner on the stove. Maybe it is primitive, but it is the way nature made things and there is nothing we can do about it.

Dear Dorothy Dix—How can a young man stay single until he gets established and ready to marry and yet not be unsociable or unfriendly? INQUIRING YOUTH.

Answer:

Evidently it can be done, for we see bachelors all about us, but undoubtedly to keep out of matrimony is among the more difficult of human achievements and requires not only great astuteness and skill on the part of the youth who is trying to avoid the snares that are laid for his feet, but also a considerable amount of pure luck.

Of course, if a man is born celibate he is in small danger. He can wander with safety amid the rosebud garden of girls and reflect upon the expense of maintaining even a single plant and be saved from the temptation to pluck one to wear in his own buttonhole. But how is the lad who loves flowers to go by so much beauty and sweetness without falling for the folly of grabbing off one, even if he hasn't a vase to put it in?

The only helpful suggestion that I can offer any young man who wants to wait to marry until he can afford the price of a wedding ring, and yet who wants to get around a bit, is to make his attentions general instead of specific.

Keep in circulation. Never make the fatal mistake of letting a girl get to be a habit. Flit from flower to flower, to go back to our garden simile, instead of sipping the nectar from one. Love 'em all instead of one particular She. There is safety in numbers.

Also in flight. And when you find you have found the ONLY one and that you are thinking about her too seriously, flee for your life.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a girl of 18 and badly spoiled. Recently I have been going with two very nice young men and at a party I played a dirty trick on them and now they are both angry with me. I have been so selfish and self-centered that I have never considered anybody but myself, and I told them lies and they found out about it. They dropped me and I haven't seen either of them for several months. It has taught me a lesson and knocked some of the selfishness and conceit out of me, because they have both ignored me completely. How can I make them see that I have changed? SPOILED GIRL.

Answer:

You will just have to wait until chance throws you together again and let them see for themselves that you are different.

Girls always think that all that a boy cares about in a girl is whether she is good-looking, a good dancer and lively. They think that a boy doesn't notice if a girl tells lies, or is catty about other girls, or is selfish and greedy, but he does. Boys size a girl up very closely as to her morals and her principles, and among the things they paaticularly dislike in one is for her to be untruthful and insincere and a braggart.

Conversely, the qualities that men all like in a woman is for her to be honest and simple and unaffected. And if you will notice you will see that it is the girls men trust who get the worth-while husbands.

AN INNOVATION

Dear Mrs. Post: I am giving a tea soon, to entertain sixty wives of employes in my husband's agency. They will come from a great many states, and I have never met any of these women. As the purpose of this tea is to have the wives meet, how can I introduce everyone to everyone else when in the first place everyone is a stranger to me? I'm such a bad one when it comes to remembering names, and the whole situation has me upset.

Answer: Since my own shortest of short-comings is not being able to remember names, I can understand your panic only too well. If I were in your place I would certainly do what they do at most public meetings and also on many of the audience-participation radio programs, and have every guest wear her name. I would prepare neat little badges with a name clearly lettered on each one, and when a guest is announced, you give her her name badge to pin on. It is true of course that the less we exercise our memories the more useless they will become. On the other hand, it is also true that it does help us to remember a name if we see it written. In any case the only way I myself can ever fix the names of strangers in mind, is to spell them.

One Man Alone at a Tea?

Dear Mrs. Post: Can our Club invite the new minister and his wife to an afternoon tea when no other men are being invited? I mean, can a minister be considered in a class apart from the other husbands?

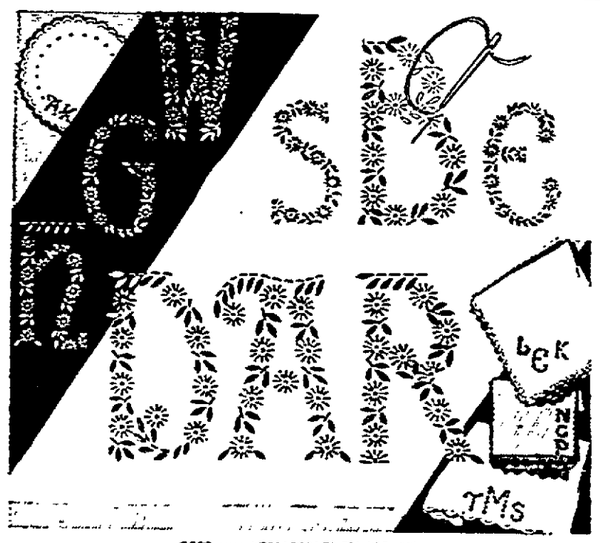

Answer: It is true that clergymen are so often present at meetings where few if any, other men are present, that it would be quite proper to send them an invitation. But it would be best I think, when inviting his wife, to explain to her, that if her husband would care to come with her, it would give everyone great pleasure to have him join them.

The Proper Way to Call the Roll?

Dear Mrs. Post: When the roll is called in Sunday School, should the members' names be given with title? And how should the members answer?

Answer: The person calling the roll should give the names with titles. For example: Miss Mary Smith and Mrs. George Smith; Mrs. John Jones and Miss Jane Jones (if there are several members in the class who have the same name). Otherwise, it would be Miss Smith and Mrs. Jones. The members merely answer "present" or perhaps "here."

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

One of the very best forms of guarantee for permanent marital happiness is contained in my advice to Eva. Women will eat their way out of the romantic category and then tearfully wonder why their husbands have strayed to slender paramours.

CASE N-164: Eva T., aged 41, is the wife I described yesterday whose husband has been developing a flirtation with another woman.

"What can I do to win him back again?" she pleaded, tearfully.

DIAGNOSIS:

It is unfortunate that many young brides seem to think they can drift along ecstatically ever after the wedding ceremony. Happy marriage is a continuous task, not an idle, romantic holiday.

Happiness, like financial riches, demands diligent planning, hard work and intelligence. Wives cannot "coast" on their courtship charms. They must be alert to changing conditions and the new mental outlook which the age of 30 gives to their husbands. Then they must know the male psychology of 40 and 50.

Men are fond of young women, because their complexions are clear and they have slender figures. Obesity tends to be associated with age, for in America, at least, we dig our graves with our teeth.

The insurance charts allow us 25 to 50 pounds more weight at 45 years than at 25, and still we can claim to be normal or average. Such increased weight, however, is not our proper weight, despite the insurance charts.

As a rule, the weight we carried at the age of 21 is the ideal poundage we should keep at 50. Too many Americans waddle along with 35 pounds of excess upholstery around their equator, thus penalizing their heart and kidneys, and tiring their feet and legs.

How To Be Young

As I recently told a menopausal wife, "You can't feel like a sport roadster and carry the chassis of a truck." Which is a terse way of saying, "diet!"

Fatness tends to kill romance. No man can feel the masculine superiority of ardent youth when he has a baby hippo on his lap. If he tries to pick her up in his arms, he gets a kink in his back or grunts so noisily he feels ambarrassed and weak. Fat women are awkward to handle.

And a man cannot be romantic at the same time that he feels awkward! A man must feel strong and skilful to gain the maximum romance out of his date.

That is one reason why Eva's husband obtained a re-stimulation of his forgotten romantic mood when he clasped a slender girl to his breast. She felt young, meaning slender.

Eva weighs 180 pounds, and jiggles when she walks. Except in a kidding mood, no man would voluntarily wish to hold such a plump girl on his lap.

She can hardly squeeze down the row to find her seat in a movie. When she gets in the automobile, the springs show it. And her own morale is also lowered by her weight. One of the best tonics for a menopausal woman is to diet until she can again slip into a size 18 frock. It gives her the same youthful zest as the office paramour contributes to her husband's morale.

How to Diet

In dieting, remember that you should never penalize the muscles of the body, including the heart muscle. Thus, orange juice, grape fruit juice and banana diets are medically unsound, for these foods do not contain the proteins so vital to bodily health and vigor. They are only sugar and starch.

If the average man will put himself on 1600 calories per day, and his wife will limit herself to 1300 calories, both will lose about 1 to 2 pounds per week, which is not such a fast weight reduction that your skin cannot shrink down to cover your chassis.

And always include 300 to 500 calories worth of meats, eggs, gelatin, cottage cheese and other proteins to protect your muscles. At your library you can procure books on the caloric value of various food portions. Never use drugs to reduce except under your physician's direction. And avoid reducing salts, which are usually ordinary epsom salts in fancy packages. They only withdraw water.

Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions on psychological problems. Write him, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a 3-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply. Letters and readers' names are never published.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

It is ever so—we are always in a hurry to grow up. And when we are grown up we do everything under the sun to keep young! So if I say, "Take your time to grow up, young lady, and enjoy your youth," I know the advice will not be heeded.

Children of three and four want to wear high heels and use lipstick. They ape their elders. Girls in their teens are likely to rush too soon to beauty salons to have their hair done and their skin pampered. If they would only take my advice they would learn to care for their skin and hair at home, and not go near a beauty parlor until they reach the age of twenty-two or three. That is if their skin and hair are normal and do not require specialized corrective work.

Lovely to Look At

A healthy head of hair, brushed to a sheen, and clean, is lovely to look at, even if it is as straight as a poker! I approve of permanent waves—but not for the very young girl. They should let the true beauty of their hair dramatize their youth. Any person can get a permanent wave, but not every person can have a lovely head of hair with a natural sheen and possibly the indication of a natural wave or curl.

Years will come when you will rely on a permanent for your hair beauty—you don't need to while you are young! A grand hair brush, a reliable liquid shampoo and a few curlers are all a young normal girl requires for her hair care. On very special, special occasions she might have a "setting" at a salon.

Skin Care

Too frequently in cities you see a young face made up too blatantly. Thick coating of lipstick in hard color, too light powder and rouge, and heavily made-up eyes make the little lady look unnatural! That girl tried to grow up too quickly. She wears hats that a woman of thirty would, her shoes are likely to be fancy and her mannerisms artificial or superficial.

Adolescent skin may require expert care to relieve it of blemishes. Then certain skin treatments are vital. Or home care for blemished skin is vital. But if your skin is neither too dry nor too oily, but lovely with the blush of youth on it, be very happy! Be proud that all you need is a bland soap for cleansing, a fluffy cleansing cream if you live in a city, and a touch of make-up. Lipstick should be sufficient make-up and I know we all have the urge to enhance our cheek coloring and to dramatize our eyes a bit. But such indulgence should be reserved for your very gala parties, where other young ladies and young men pretend to be very grown up! Your one colorful indulgence may be nail polish!

I'm no grundy youngsters, and I know what I am talking about. Keep yourself young, and sweet, and lovable. Your life will be happier in the end. You will have long, long years of being old and wishing you were sweet sixteen!

Mesh comes to the front for summer day sizzlers, and Virginia Bruce finds that black open-mesh net is ideal as a summer non-crushable, breezy fabric. The actress' one-piece dress hat has white net edging its round neckline, facing the front bodice opening pleats of the skirt. This gives the skirt a flaring, black and white stripe effect which is enhanced by the waist-length jacket with pleated lapels edged in the white net.

For sight seeing at the fair, Rita Johnson selects a navy and white printed silk suit. The one-piece dress features an all-round pleated skirt, shirtwaist bodice and waist-length fitted jacket with crisp pique lapels. The season's necessary flash of red is achieved in the woolen reefer, double-breasted with navy stitched pockets. Pill-box of navy straw, white gloves, shoes, and big white link choker give the costume a chic world of tomorrow look.

Child Should be Taught How To Spend as Well as Save

BY ANGELO PATRI

Children under ten are more inclined to spend than to save money. Childhood is spending time, and the emphasis of instruction ought to be on intelligent spending. As the child grows older he sees the need for saving toward some definite end, such as buying a baseball, an extra like roller skates. He ought to be helped to do that. It is the second step in his experience with money. The next one is earning—spending and saving combined. Experiences in the use and value and place of money are essential to intelligent living. This is not to be overlooked by those who are rearing children.

In this, as in every other phase of child growth, there are variations of behavior, some most unexpected. One deals with them as they appear, always considering the value of the experience to the child in this relation and knowing, too, that no phase of growth is final. There is another growing out of it for better or worse. Our interest lies in directing it toward the better.

Simon was given a bank when he was two and trained to put whatever money came his way into that bank. He was not told about spending. Only saving was emphasized, so he saved. It must have come easy to him, by nature, for he did not show any of the usual liking for spending. By the time he was seven this phase of his growth began to worry his family. Simon showed a tendency to take, and to keep what he got with no desire to give.

His mother's birthday was coming. It is the custom in the family for each to make a little personal gift to her on the morning of that day. Father asked Simon what he was going to do about it?

"I don't know. Helen and Michael want me to chip in with them and get her a book she said she would like, but I don't want to take my money out of the bank. Must I?"

"No," said father. "Not unless you want to."

"I'll make something that won't cost anything," said Simon, greatly relieved, and he cut out a picture of a boat from a magazine and placed it in a frame he found in the storeroom. It was a pretty gift and mother thanked him for it.

Soon Simon's birthday was at hand. He showed the family a picture of a motor boat he had cut out of a catalogue and said, "That's the boat I'm going to have when I get money enough. It costs three thousand dollars. I'm saving up for it."

Father nodded, his brother and sister looked astonished and said nothing. When Simon was out of the room they talked about the boat and Simon's birthday. "No money," said father. "We'll each make the gift we are going to give him with our own hands. I think he needs a strong hint."

On the birthday morning Simon was up early to see what was on the table for him. After breakfast he opened the packages. From mother a knitted cap, from Helen a pair of bedroom slippers, crocheted, from Michael a little copper tray hammered, marked with his initials, from father a bookshelf—to keep his schoolbooks off the library table.

Unbelief at first was what his face expressed, then grief. "No check?"

"No check," said father, "we thought we would not spend any money so we made your things ourselves."

Maybe that will help. Children are strange bundles of mystery. Lucky that they have twenty years to find their way to maturity.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

The Home Gardener

By Edwin H. Perkins

At one time gourds were common household and garden decorations. Other blooms and fruits replaced them in the gardens and more decorative materials routed them from homes. They have staged a comeback with the result that gourds are growing by leaps and bounds in the minds of garden-minded people.

The reasons for this are many. Gourds are interestingly colored and shaped, strangely marked and endlessly unlike each other. The fruits can be used for house decoration, after serving as ornaments in the garden, or the person with imagination can create from them many household articles such as dippers, drinking cups and so on as far as imagination limits.

Aside from all these uses, gourds serve another very special purpose. They grow quickly from seeds sown in mid-June into plants which make fine screens for service buildings or chicken runs, and the shade they provide is truly helpful. After hot weather is over the gourds are still fresh looking, which is something that cannot be said for most plants.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

THE CHARACTERS

Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.

Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate, Seacliff.

Yesterday: After the dance, there is even more restraint between Tally and Joselyn.

Chapter 17

NOLA suggested: "Let's throw a huge party tonight. Impromptu affairs are always more fun. Let's get on the telephone and call everyone we know in Santa Barbara."

"But—" Thorn began.

"Silence!" Nola commanded. "I want a party. If you insist, I'll be the hostess and assume full charge; but a party I'm going to have and that's that!"

"All right," Thorn assented. "Suit you, Lyn?"

"All right by me. The servants will have a fit, though."

"Then order caterers from town," Nola said.

Thorn flushed. "We really can't afford the extra expense. You see, so far we've been living on our stock dividends. Grandmother left us forty thousand in secure stocks and bonds, but even good dividends from that amount is no fortune. We're far from being rich, Nola."

"Oh, I didn't know, of course."

A constrained silence gripped all of them for a few minutes. Finally Nola asserted: "I've just about completed negotiations for giving away ten million dollars to the government toward re-forestation."

"Why — that's a splendid idea," Thorn exclaimed. "However did you arrive at it?"

"Oh, with the help of a lawyer friend."

Jocelyn felt sure she meant Tally and hoped, for Thorn's peace of mind, Nola would never divulge the lawyer's identity.

"Anyhow," Nola went on, "the point is this—if I can give the government ten million, I guess I can give my hosts and their friends a party."

Thorn's eyes, appealing and miserable, met Jocelyn's.

"You'll do no such a thing," Jocelyn declared. "You're our guest. Besides, I haven't played hostess for a long time. Our servants will make out very well. Come on, all of you, and get busy on the telephones! Be sure and offer midnight swimming."

People literally swarmed over the right division of Seacliff that evening. Both the piano and the radio were going full blast; the drawing room was crowded with dancers; the swimming pool splashed with swimmers; the terrace echoed with the shouts and laughter of couples playing children's games and deriving hilarious fun from them. Jocelyn, thinking it was such a very nice party, was puzzled when, a little past midnight, Humphreys told her Tally was on the porch asking for her.

"Tell him to come in," she advised.

"He says will you please come out on the porch, Miss Jocelyn, for he is not dressed for a party."

Making an excuse to her dancing partner Jocelyn found Tally leaning against a stone balustrade. He was attired in his working clothes; his hair tousled and tumbling over his forehead.

"Hello — did you want to see me?"

"Yes." His voice was brusque. "I don't like to spoil your fun but none of us can sleep with so much noise going on. Betsy has nearly driven Mother crazy, and I have to be up at sunrise."

Unwanted Guest

"Oh—I didn't realize. I'm really sorry," she said sincerely. "I'll turn down the radio and feed everyone. That usually quiets them. I'm sure we won't give you any more trouble."

"Thank you. I'll try to get some sleep. Good night."

Before she could say anything further he had disappeared into the shadows around the corner of the house. For a few minutes she remained where she was, her thoughts strangely depressing. Then, with a shrug, she went back into the drawing-room, crossed to the radio and turned it lower.

Going into the kitchen she gave orders for serving the buffet supper on the great oak table in the dining-room.

When she returned to the party another guest had arrived; an unwanted and unbidden guest; old Talbot Mack.

Already some prankster had ensconced him in a comfortable cushioned chair and had collected a group of listeners who encouraged him to relate his more colorful adventures on the "Seventy Seas."

Gramp, spying Jocelyn, hesitated. A wistful expression crept into his discerning old eyes. "I hope you don't mind my comin' into your party this-away, Josie," he apologized. "I heard laughin' and music and it seemed like I jest couldn't stay away — it's been so durned long since I went a-partyin'—"

Bob Russell crossed the room with swift strides and laid a reassuring hand on the old man's stooped shoulders. "Of course she doesn't mind," he asserted. "We're glad to have you, Gramp."

The circle closed in again, shutting out Jocelyn. She hurried to the terrace to round up her guests for supper, refraining from mentioning the old man's presence to Geoff or Thorn. But when the guests, talking and laughing, filed into the house, Nola saw Gramp and called a delighted greeting. Jocelyn noted his relief and pleasure at seeing Nola, who immediately perched on the arm of his chair and affectionately rumpled his hair and teased him about marrying an Irish barmaid.

For the next hour, busy with her guests, Jocelyn did not permit herself to think of anything but her duty as hostess. She reminded Thorn, when he frowned an objection to Gramp, that this party was for Nola and if Nola wanted the old man it was their duty to be tactful.

However, old Talbot Mack, with the assistance of willing cupbearers, soon became comically intoxicated. Struggling to his feet he danced for them, awkwardly shuffling his worn house slippers. Then he sang ballads in his high, cracked voice; ballads both dolorous and lilting. The more he performed the more he was urged on, until great drops of perspiration came out on his forehead and

Baseball Hall of Fame Could Include a Few Newspapermen

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The observance of the centennial of baseball is incomplete and a little unsporting without some acknowledgment to the corps of journalists who have clattered over the ties with the players and written stuff that made them famous and some of the magnates rich. Baseball has lived as much by publicity as by prowess, for the glamorizing prose of the working press has kept the business in the public mind in season and out for more than 40 years and clothed it in the appeal of a national institution.

Pegler

True, the press has covered baseball for box office reasons of its own, but the writers rarely have permitted such thoughts to soil their work, and it is for the writer in the press coop, not for the business manager in his lair, that I bespeak honorable mention. If Babe Ruth's bat and the pants of John McGraw be relics worth treasuring under glass in the hall of fame at Cooperstown, an institution adapted from the Lenin museum and the typical American attic, then bill McGeehan's portable typewriter which made McGraw the master mind is not less sacred.

Detracting nothing from the glory that was Cobb, I propose that the trustees of Cooperstown score an assist for the man who named him the Georgia Peach, and, in the case of Ruth, equal recognition for the writer—a Mr. Runyan, I believe—who called him first the great Bambino, then the Bam.

Certain individual writers in some communities have been baseball men in print longer than any individual star and have done baseball on paper as well as any athlete ever played it on the field.

Among these Ring Lardner must be cited first and Hugh S. Fullerton somewhere in first division along with Grantland Rice, the originator of the dream-stuff style and still champion of that school of writers who hear only cheers and never the gnashing of the turnstile cogs. Lardner and Rice, friends and neighbors, wrote from conflicting points of view and equally well—Lardner with a knack for wringing a clammy sweat shirt onto the page and Rice in a way that squirted the sourest oaf with nobility as sweet as barber water.

Pegler Even Offers A Few Suggestions

It may be unwise to single out individual nominees offffhand, but I would name as one of the musts Roy Stockton, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who, writing of the gas house gang and Pepper Martin's mud cats, made even better entertainment than he saw. He and Sid Keener, of the Star-Times, were doing baseball when George Sisler broke in and are still at it years after the close of Sisler's long and ill-rewarded career, and no St. Louis magnate or manager, nor even Sisler or the brothers Dean, was more helpful to the game than either one.

Bill Hanna, of the New York Herald Tribune, who covered baseball 40 years, a wizened, sickly little man in his last days and always quaintly querulous, was noted around the league for his pills and droughts and his refusal to occupy hotel rooms above the second floor to the neglect of his extreme accuracy and a conscientious habit of checking all doubtful points with the team managers before he wrote his copy. Bill Phelon, of Cincinnati, was a fan himself with a personal following and a flow of wild but excellent language. He was thought to be slightly eccentric on the side, because he carried pet lizards to deter managers from assigning others to room with him, and once, in all earnestness, solicited a colleague who was a devout Catholic to join the Ku Klux Klan and keep the Pope at bay.

Dryden Wouldn't Look Out of Place on List

In Brooklyn Uncle Wilbert Robinson, as manager of the clowns called the daffiness boys, was devoted to Garry Schumacher, the spirit of Flatbush, and was unhappy without him on tour. Surely among such men as these and Harry Salsinger, of Detroit; Bozeman Bulger, Paul Shannon, of Boston; Charlie Dryden, Charles E. Van Loan, Dan Daniel, Rud Rennie, Fred G Lieb, Gunner Hudson and Harry Neely, the Mexican scholar, the trustees of the museum must discover something that can be ignored only at a sacrifice of sportsmanship and comradeship. For in baseball the historians help create the history they write and are of the game itself.

Dryden was an artist who often concealed vulgar mischief in the sly arrangement of blameless wordage, and gems of his composition are still recited by old carpetbaggers of the press coop for the entertainment of the young. At last he collapsed, and a group of comrades who broke their southern trip a few years later to visit him at Biloxi found him paralyzed in a wheel chair watching the approach of his last spring.

His speech was impaired, but the old man managed to stutter, with tears in his eyes, "Happy days! Happy days!"

Mr. Dryden, for one, would not look out of place in the baseball hall of fame.

Citizens Rally at Park for Record Flag Day Program

Hundreds Stand in Pavilion for 2 Hours of Music, Speeches

In tribute to a flag that stands for principles of democracy rather than conquests in the battlefield or racial superiority, Appleton citizens gathered Wednesday night at Pierce park in one of the largest Flag day demonstrations ever held here.

Even the rainy weather failed to keep people away. The program, originally planned for outdoors, had to be transferred inside the pavilion where hundreds of persons—white-haired grandfathers, mothers holding babies in their arms, high school and grade pupils—stood for close to two hours listening to the music and speeches.

There were plenty of seats outdoors, bleachers having been set up for the occasion, but it was impossible to bring them inside the pavilion after the crowd rushed in.

The rain held off, fortunately, for the parade which preceded the program. The Elks' band, under the direction of Orville J. Thompson, the Sons of the American Legion drum and bugle corps and several patriotic units marched in the parade, which began at N. Park and E. College avenues and continued down S. Memorial drive and W. Prospect avenue to Pierce park.

Mayor's Welcome

The address of welcome given by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., was the only part of the program given outdoors.

"We have too long taken our freedom for granted," the mayor said. He pointed to Europe, where liberty has been taken away from the people of so many countries, and suggested that Americans show their appreciation for the freedom they still have by voting, by studying the affairs of government and by seeing that the public welfare is well served.

By the time he had finished much of his audience had scampered ignominiously inside the pavilion to seek shelter from the rain.

The main address of the evening was given by Leading Knight J. M. Van Rooy of the Appleton Elks lodge, who said that only the most radical pessimist could think that the United States will not conquer the economic ills that beset it. He pointed out that a young, robust country like the United States tends to exaggerate its temporary ills.

Giving an account of the history of the flag and what it stands for, Mr. Van Rooy said it was an emblem of democracy that assured the people of the United States that they would never have to bend their knees to a dictator. He urged that they be ready at all times to defend the flag and the fundamental ideals for which it stands.

Display Of Flag

Another speaker was Mrs. John R. E. Miller, patriotic instructor of the George D. Eggleston Woman's Relief corps and a past department president of the organization, who spoke on how to show respect for the American flag and how correctly to display it. Mrs. Clarence Baetz, president of the American Legion auxiliary, and Mrs. Patrick Ferguson, president of the Woman's Relief corps, assisted her with practical demonstrations.

A feature of the program was the display of the flag which Mrs. Paul Wilke is making for the Rainbow Division veterans. Mrs. Wilke, who began work on the flag two years ago, came to the platform and sewed on it while Major Lothar G. Graef, president of Rainbow Division veterans, gave a brief account of the famous division's work in the World war and described the flag Mrs. Wilke is making.

Representing the American Legion on the program were Paul Wilke, commander of Oney Johnston post, and Frank H. Wilson, newly elected commander of the post. Introduced by Wilke, Wilson read "Tribute to Our Flag."

Another Flag day reading was given by Milburn Rietz.

To demonstrate the proper way to destroy an old flag, a flag cremation ceremony was conducted by Major A. O. Kuehmsted under the sponsorship of J. T. Reeve circle. Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Band Performs

Interspersed in the program were stirring selections by the Elks band. Robert Sager of the Appleton High school band acted as cornet soloist in one of the presentations. E. C. Moore, director of the Appleton High school band, was guest conductor for the same selection.

Since Appleton lodge, No. 337, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, sponsored the program with the cooperation of other patriotic organizations in the city, its exalted ruler, Andrew W. Parnell, acted as master of ceremonies. Gustave Keller was chairman of the committee coordinating the observance.

The playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and the pledge of allegiance to the flag, led by Mrs. Clarence Baetz, closed the program.

The parade and ceremony last night were the climax of the flag week observance, during which the Stars and Stripes flew daily from buildings and homes and from standards which lined the sidewalks in the business district. Most of the clubs, lodges and other organizations which met during the week included tributes to the flag in their programs.

J. T. Reeve circle sponsored another flag cremation ceremony at the park in the afternoon. This also was conducted by Major Kuehmsted, with the assistance of a group of Boy Scouts. Mayor Goodland was chairman of the program, which opened with an invocation given by the Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor of the First Baptist church, and included selections by the Appleton High school band. Mrs. Walter Hoppe was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the ceremony.

water-logged. Therefore death definitely was not due to drowning. Death probably was due to suffocation from the blanket taken with the baby. Preliminary examination disclosed no trace of poison.

Sheriff Myers ordered deputies to the creek with hooks to search for the blanket in which the baby was wrapped when stolen from the home of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oran Baker.

A "mysterious stranger" seen in this northern Ohio town of 3,100 seemed to furnish the best lead in the case.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Irvin Baker Fink, 22 divorced from the father, 23, had told Sheriff Myers about a stranger who approached her near her home Tuesday night and inquired directions to a neighbor's.

Today a woman residing five blocks from the Baker home said she heard a car stop near her home between 9 and 11 o'clock Tuesday evening. (The baby was stolen between 10 and 11 o'clock p. m.) She said she heard a baby cry and two or more persons talking in the auto.

A few minutes later the car drove a short distance past her house, stopped again and a stranger got out and put "a bundle or something" in the rear compartment, she declared.

Hope for Speed On Relief Bill

(Republicans were formulating this amendment.)

While the house was continuing its three-day debate, word passed around the cloakrooms that the appropriations committee would seek another $200,000 for carrying on its WPA investigation during the summer.

The investigating subcommittee was allocated $25,000 originally, but it indicated yesterday it was not through. It will submit a partial report soon.

Contemplated Cuts

The committee said the program contemplated a reduction from an average of 2,500,000 in June, 1939, to 1,500,000 in June, 1940, but quoted President Roosevelt as saying expectation of an upward trend in employment was justified.

Woodrum told the house the bill would provide one-third less than relief funds for the current year, would give more jobs through a system of rotating WPA work, and would "strike a body blow at relief racketeering."

Among other changes, the bill provided for a three-man board instead of a single administrator to run the WPA, apportioning relief money on the "basis of jobs instead of money, "elimination of the federal theater project, stronger bans on political activity of supervisory employes, a requirement that they take an oath to defend the constitution, and elimination of any funds for direct relief.

It also earmarks $125,000,000 of the WPA fund for the public works administration for construction under the grant-and-loan method.

Six Acts on Merchants Program Friday Night

Six quality acts will be presented on the Merchants Outdoor Theater program tomorrow night in Pierce park, it was announced today.

One of the most unusual of the acts will be the performance of Arthur Dick, 1-legged acrobat, roller skater, and tight wire artist, known as the "world's champion on crutches." Other performers are as follows: Harry Ferris, ventriloquist with walking dummy; Peggy Wells, acrobat; Dude Kimball, novelty musician; Bud Bartell, magician; and Armedo, accordionist.

Eagles Study Plans For New Clubhouse; Decision Is Deferred

A sketch of the floor plans of a proposed new clubhouse was studied at a meeting of the Fraternal Order of Eagles last night at the Eagles hall.

Carl Kunitz, a member of the building committee, said the decision to build was deferred, probably for another year, although plans and specifications for the structure will be ordered before that time.

The new building, when the plans are ready, will be built at the corner of Washington and Morrison streets on property already owned by the organization. Tentative plans call for 14 bowling alleys, an auditorium and clubrooms.

What! Skies Will Be Clear Friday

Weatherman Says So; Last Night's Rainfall Is .27 of Inch

The weatherman came out unequivocally today with a forecast of fair weather for tonight and tomorrow.

It's about time, citizens of Appleton and vicinity remarked, as they looked back on a week of frequent showers and below-normal temperatures.

The sky was doing its best to clear today after last night's rains; the sun broke through frequently, but stubborn dark clouds stuck around. Rainfall last night measured .27 of an inch.

The thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 73 degrees at 12:30 this afternoon. For the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 71 and the lowest 59, the Wisconsin Michigan Power company reported.

2 Traffic Violators Pay $5 Fines, Costs

Harold Helms, 222 N. Morrison street, pleaded guilty of passing another car on a curve and was fined $5 and costs by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Helms was arrested by county police in the town of Grand Chute Tuesday.

Arthur Schnell, New London, who pleaded guilty of failing to stop for an arterial, also was fined $5 and costs. County police made the arrest in the town of Grand Chute June 11.

Accident Victim Still In Critical Condition

New London—The condition of Elmer Marasch, 20, New London, who was critically injured when kicked by a horse yesterday, was reported unchanged today at the Community hospital. Drivers License Fee Increased by New Michigan Law

Extra Money Will Help Operate Driver Examination Bureaus

Lansing, Mich. — (AP) — Michigan motorists must pay $1.25, instead of $1, for their drivers licenses in the future by virtue of a new law signed Wednesday by Governor Dickinson.

The law returns 35 cents, instead of 15, from each fee to local communities for the operation of driver examination bureaus.

Another bill signed by the governor lowers to $75 the amount of unpaid damage judgment in an auto accident for which a driver's license may be suspended. The previous figure was $150.

Other bills signed by the governor would:

Return to county road funds money impounded in closed banks from road bond sinking funds, where the bonds have been paid from other funds.

Exempt insurance benefits for disability from levy and sale under executions.

Permit 20 per cent of land owners, instead of 65 per cent, to petition for the provision of township fire apparatus, although denying such petitions if 36 per cent of the land owners object.

Set township political caucus on the third Monday in Februaray instead of the first Monday in March.

Require the approval of the state budget director and auditor general for the purchase of state cars and to permit those officials to dispose of "unnecessay" automobiles.

Make it a misdemeanor for an employing agent in industry to accept or solicit money from a person applying for a job and to forbid requiring an employe to make any purchase to hold a job.

Agriculture Bill May Hurt Dairies

Committee Fails to Back Surplus Commodity Purchase Fund

Washington —(AP)— A prediction that the conference committee on the agricultural appropriation bill will divide the question of appropriations for parity payments and for surplus commodity purchases was made today by Representative Gehrmann (P-Wis.)

Gehrmann said he understands the committee will recommend the house yield to the senate, permitting inclusion of the $225,000,000 appropriation for parity payments under the agricultural adustment act, but without a recommendation on the $113,000,000 for surplus commodities purchases.

"If the question is divided, the chances are that the surplus item will be killed," Gehrmann said. "This, to the extent of about $30,000,000, was the only thing that could benefit the dairy industry."

"I feel it is absolutely unfair to come in and recommend partity payments without recommending the inclusion of the surplus purchase funds," he said in his statement declaring this action was previously unexpected.

"I voted for parity payments to go along in good faith expecting the beneficiaries of the parity payments would naturally assist the dairy area in getting the $113,000,000 for surplus purchases," Gehrmann said.

Arrest Woman in Marriage Swindle

Reported to be Person Who Tricked Oneida Farmer Out of $1,800

About two years ago Frank Pagac, former Oneida farmer and now of Ladysmith, married a woman after meeting her through a "lonely hearts" club. She induced him to sell his farm and while in Chicago, she disappeared from a railroad station with $1,800 of his money.

He had given it to her after she asked for it, warning him against "city slickers."

A woman, Mrs. Rose Musil, with several aliases, and reported to be the person Pagac married, has been taken into custody at Grand Rapids, Mich., and Sheriff John Lappen planned to go to that city today to return her to Appleton to face an embezzlement charge.

A communication from Wilmette, Ill., authorities has been received by the sheriff which states that the woman is believed to be the same who worked a similar scheme on a Wilmette man.

British Near Clash With Jap Troops in Tientsin District

al settlement at Amoy, in addition to the police blockade of British and French concessions at Tientsin.

At the same time, messages from foreign sources at Hankow said Japanese forces had blockaded offices, warehouses and docks of a large British shipping firm, refusing passage to British and Chinese employes.

Foreign advices from Amoy said three Japanese warships had isolated the island of Kulangsu, which is the Amoy settlement, halting all traffic and preventing landing of vegetables and other supplies.

A Japanese spokesman was quoted as saying the purpose of the blockade was to "bring the (Kulangsu) municipal council to its senses" with regard to Japanese demands for a greater hand in control of the settlement.

Halted Shipping

Last month, about the time the United States, Britain and France matched a Japanese landing party three-to-one with their own marines and blue-jackets at Kulangsu, the Japanese halted shipping between Kulangsu and the mainland. However, a few days ago a Shanghai spokesman said that Japanese blockade had been lifted.

The issue at Tientsin was drawn along similar lines with Japanese officers declaring the cordon around the British and French concessions would not be lifted until "the British reverse their policy and afford us complete cooperation."

Back of both blockades was the Japanese effort, through the conquest of China started July 7, 1937, to establish a "new order in eastern Asia."

Both were based on Japanese demands for suppression of "anti-Japanism."

There was no further word of the food situation among Kulangsu's 250 foreigners and 40,000 Chinese but at Tientsin, more than 1,000 miles north of Amoy, the pinch was rapidly becoming acute. The Tientsin blockade was started only yesterday.

Supplies Are Low

Hotels reported they had supplies for about one week. Supplies of ice were all but exhausted, however.

Shipments of vegetables, milk and other foods were virtually cut off for the 120,000 combined population of the two Tientsin concessions—although the Japanese reported they were permitting one cartload to enter the areas every three hours. British and French food markets prices doubled and trebled in some cases.

Because their quarrel at Tientsin was with the British, Japanese authorities had expressed regret that to isolate the British concessions it was necessary to blockade the contiguous French zone.

All Britons passing back and forth through the police-guarded entrances to the concessions were reported thoroughly searched while other foreigners encountered measures more strict than the cursory treatment they were given yesterday.

Rural Co-op Will Fight Purchase of Union Falls Plant

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — On the motion of the Oconto Rural Electric cooperative, the public service commission today agreed to a two weeks' adjournment of the hearing on the application of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company to buy the Union Falls dam and hydro plant from the Oconto River Power company.

The cooperative asked for the extension in order to prepare testimony opposing the purchase, to cross-examine witnesses heard yesterday, and to enter negotiations with REA in Washington for its own purchase of the property in question. Further hearing is scheduled for June 28.

The hearing, which started yesterday, was on application of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company for a permit to buy the Oconto Falls plant for $90,000. REA officers present at the hearing said they had made formal application for a loan to finance purchase of the property.

Cracks Sealed in Hatten Park Pool

Only Finland Pays Full Share of War Debt Installment

Washington—(AP)—Another installment on the war debts to the United States became due today, but as usual only Finland was remitting its full share.

Hungary made a token payment of $9,828.16 this week on her debt—originally $1,685,000—and expressed the hope that congress would consider favorably an offer of settlement made last year.

Rumania submitted last month an offer to settle her $64,000,000 debt on terms which called for a scaling down of the obligation.

Great Britain, whose unpaid $85,-676,765.05 installment was the largest due today, has reiterated her offer to discuss settlement "whenever circumstances are such as to warrant the hope that a satisfactory result might be reached."

The total amount owed the United States is now about $13,000,000,-000.

Since last winter's due date, Czechoslovakia has ceased to exist as an independent nation, leaving unanswered the question of who, if anybody, will pay her $165,620,270 debt to the United States.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

rolled down the deep creases of his face.

Thorn fidgeted with annoyance. Geoff fretted the exasperation. Jocelyn thought. "They're making a fool of him—it's awful!"

With abrupt decision she went through the lower hall to the communicating door which led into the Mack's domain. Turning the lock, she went through and marched up the broad stairway, her eyes flashing with indignation.

Not knowing which room was Tally's, she stopped in the center called his name. A few seconds later a door opposite opened and a pair of sleepy eyes blinked at her.

Known Quantity

"Tally," she implored, "please come down and get your grandfather. He—they're making sport of him. It—it's cruel. Please come and take him away and keep him out of—"

"Your parlor!" Tally finished. "Which reminds me. I did promise you we would stay out of your parlor, didn't I?"

"Yes — but that isn't why I came."

"Isn't it? I don't see why you bother to pretend an interest in Gramp's welfare when the truth is you're ashamed of him."

Jocelyn bit her lip. "Very well If that is your opinion we'll let it go. Just get him out and keep him out."

She fled down the stairs feeling tearful at his unjust accusation; for it was unjust, she assured herself. Tally and his family had done nothing but annoy and humiliate her since the day of their arrival. Tally had thwarted her every move. He was horrid and mean and egotistical! He had kissed her only in order to humiliate her. He had no doubt laughed many times over the way she had capitulated that night at the club dance. Well, he could just laugh out of the other side of his mouth, for he was nothing to her but a necessary nuisance that had to be borne until the day she married Geoffrey. . . .

Tally, putting in an appearance ten minutes later, was dressed in well-fitting white flannel trousers and spotless white shirt. His black hair was dampened and combed. He went over to his grandfather, returning pleasantly the greetings which welcomed him, and gently put his arm about the old man.

"Come on, Gramp," he coaxed, "it's past your bedtime."

"Don't wanta go!"

Nola tweaked the old man's ear affectionately and took his other arm. "Time little boys were in bed," she scolded. "And if you're good I'll take you for a long ride tomorrow. Word of honor!"

He winked solemnly, teetering on shaky legs as they lifted him from his chair. "All right, Noly. Can't say 'no' to a pretty gal—never could—"

Supported between Tally and Nola he stumbled away, nodding drowsily.

Now, their chief entertainer gone, the guests milled around the laden dining table, recalling to each other hilarious bits of Gramp's recitals. Jocelyn sighed. Tomorrow these bits would be strewn all over town.

Bob jiggled her elbow "Don't look so vexed, Lyn. Everything is under control. Everyone is having a swell time!"

Geoff caught her and carried her off for a dance. Intent on matching her steps to his, she relaxed against his solidity, thankful for his substance and familiarity. Maybe Geoff was not exciting nor pulse-stirring, but at least he was a known quantity.

The first warning of more upheavel came from the terrace. Sandy, supposedly asleep in the rear depths of the house, began barking with frightened frenzy. A shrill childish voice ordered him to "Shut up!" Then a small apparition clothed in a long cotton nightgown, holding a squirming white cat under its arm, appeared in the doorway.

Geoff halted. "Good heavens! What now—"

Committees Will Seek Solution in Boulevard Debate

Joint Meeting of Neenah, Menasha Councils Results in Compromise

Menasha — Committees will be appointed by Mayor W. H. Jensen of Menasha and Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs of Neenah to continue negotiations in an attempt to arbitrate the boulevard problem as a result of the joint meeting of the two councils Wednesday night at the Menasha city hall.

The final decision was preceded by over two hours of argument and discussion which grew acrimonious at times in spite of the assurances of both groups that each was willing to coperate and go half-way. Both agreed without any argument to the necessity of the removal of the east 39 feet of the boulevard and to the removal of the small circles opposite Second, Fourth and Twelfth street in Neenah.

Both groups agreed that there is a traffic hazard present at the west end of the boulevard from Ahnaip street to Washington street but they could not agree as to what to do about it. As Mayor Kalfahs pointed out, Menasha was boulevard-minded and Neenah was terrace-minded. The Menasha group wanted to solve the problem by removing the entire boulevard for two blocks on the west end of the street while the Neenah aldermen suggested that the street be widened by cutting the terrace back on each side.

Proposes Cut-Back

Mayor Kalfahs of Neenah opened the discussion and asked whether the Menasha group had ever given any consideration to cutting back the terrace. He pointed out that ever property owner on the Neenah side of the section in question favored cutting back the terrace and was opposed to removing the boulevard because it would spoil the beauty and would create an additional traffic hazard.

The Neenah aldermen pointed out that no accidents have been reported in that section. Mayor Jensen declared that having a boulevard in the street made traffic conditions safer for the driver but not for the pedestrian.

The wordy discussion became involved at times. The Menasha group finally declared that no consideration of the possibility of removing the terrace had been given because they thought that Neenah had objected to such a step when the matter was first broached almost a year ago. Then followed argument as to who said what.

At one time Mayor Kalfahs suggested that if no agreement could be reached that the matter should be permitted to rest. "Another six years?" Mayor Jensen asked. The Menasha mayor charged, "You don't want to help us. We offered to pay the entire expense of removing the east 39 feet of the boulevard and you objected."

Won't Back Down

At one time Mayor Jensen declared, "As far as I'm concerned, we can take our half out. I'll not back down."

A little later he pointed out that neither of the councils had set any money aside for such work and suggested that the matter be dropped until fall when the 1940 budgets are prepared.

Alderman Loehning, O'Brien, Larsen and Buschey were spokesmen for Neenah in addition to Mayor Kalfahs. O'Brien pointed out that no one would get anywhere with a chip on the shoulder. Larsen, Loehning and Buschey favored cutting the terrace back on both sides.

Aldermen Zeininger, Karrow, Scanlon, DeBruin, Pinkerton, Michalkiewicz and Crowley and former Alderman M. J. Grode entered the discussion from the Menasha council. Alderman M. F. Crowley made the only genuine compromise suggestion of the meeting but had to explain it at least three times before it received much of a response.

Suggests Compromise

Crowley declared that he still was in favor of his original motion of last Tuesday which called for Menasha to remove its half of the boulevard, but that arbitration was necessary because consideration is due to the rights of Neenah. Crowley suggested that a strip be cut from both terraces and from the boulevard to create a 22-foot roadway on both the Neenah and Menasha sides. He pointed out that the suggestion would require consideration by both councils before action is taken.

At present the island in the boulevard is 18 feet wide each roadway is 18 feet wide and there is a terrace 18 feet wide on each side of the street. Debruin and Pinkerton expressed approval of the suggestion made by Crowley.

After Crowley had repeated and amplified his suggestion Mayor Kalfahs said that the Menasha alderman's suggestion was the only one near a compromise. He declared that Neenah would consider it and give an answer to Menasha. Scanlon suggested that 30 days might be reasonable but Crowley declared that the report should be made sooner.

Mayor Jensen once more suggested that the matter be dropped until after money is placed in the budget for the work, but Scanlon suggested that plans should be drawn and completed for the compromise suggestion now. He introduced a resolution calling for appointment of three men by the Menasha mayor and three men by the Neenah mayor to confer on the matter and the report be carried.

The committee is to agree on a compromise as to the amount to be taken from the boulevard and the amount to be taken from each terrace. The report is to be prepared before July 6.

Falcons to Oppose Green Bay Sunday

Menasha Team Will Try To Climb Out of League Cellar

Menahsa — The Menasha Falcons will travel to Green Bay Sunday for a Fox Valley league baseball game. The Falcons, champions of the league last year, still are at the bottom of the standings with one victory in six starts. Green Bay has won three and lost two for a .600 percentage and is in a tie for third place in the league league standings.

Rain and cold weather prevented the Falcons from playing their scheduled game last Sunday with Appleton at the new Menasha stadium. Although the Falcons have lost five games, in most instances the scores have been close. Only Kimberly, which is leading the league gave the Falcons a trouncing.

The extra week has given the Falcons a chance to get in some more practice in an effort to develop a punch in the batting attack. Errors also have been costly at various times in the Falcon's playing but the chief weakness has been that they have failed to get runs for their pitchers to work on.

Failure to play the scheduled tilt Sunday also has given the two ailing members of the Falcon hurling staff a chance to give their arms additional care. Both H. Stutzkowski and A. Sandburg have been on the shelf with sore arms. In case they are not ready to take the mound Sunday at Green Bay, the task probably will fall to Syl Omar, veteran outfielder who has pitched two games this year because the Falcons have been hardpressed for hurling talent.

$1,000 Provided For Maintaining Ferry at Eureka

Winnebago County Board Votes Service While Span Is Being Built

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau)

Oshkosh — After discussing the matter intermittently for two days, the Winnebago county board yesterday afternoon appropriated $1,000 for operating a ferry over the Fox river at Eureka during the construction of the new $85,000 bridge on County Trunk K in the village.

When the old bridge was closed to traffic a few days ago, the north and south sides of the village were separated by the river. Persons desiring to go to the other side of the community had to travel to Omro or Berlin to cross the river. Each of these villages is seven miles distant.

At the opening of the board session, Supervisor Clarence Fisher, town of Rushford, submitted a resolution calling for an appropriation of $10,000 for a temporary bridge at this point.

Reject Resolution

This resolution was voted down after lengthy discussion. A substitute resolution was submitted in the afternoon and offered as an alternate solution. The resolution called for a $2,000 foot bridge but was defeated.

Another resolution was submitted yesterday which sought an appropriation for renting barges to span the 200 foot width of the river. War department officials of Milwaukee had to be consulted by telephone because the river is considered a navigable stream at this point.

This resolution fell by the wayside when it was announced by E. M. Bird, county highway commissioner, that satisfactory barges were not available.

Just before adjournment, the board listened to J. F. Ulrich, supervisor of the town of Winneconne, who submitted a resolution calling for the operation of a ferry at this point.

"Least We Can Do"

"This is the least we can do for them," Ulrich stated as the board settled the most important issue of the session.

Two ordinances were enacted by the county board. Both established laws similar to state statutes in regard to law and order on the highway.

The first ordinance gives county police the authority to arrest persons guilty of drunken driving, reckless driving and driving under the influence of narcotic drugs under county ordinance.

The other ordinance gives the sheriff's department the right to arrest a person guilty of disorderly conduct in a state of condition other than that of being drunk. Prior to this time, the county officers had no authority to arrest persons for being boisterous in the county.

A sum of $500 was appropriated for the county education department to use in conducting an educational campaign for county adults and naturalized citizens in citizenship.

As a last piece of business, the board voted down a proposal of the sheriff's and coroner's committee asking that two additional men be placed on the county highway patrol.

After allowing claims, the board adjourned until the regular November session.

The boys were assigned to their tents and they spent the remainder of the morning getting their cots made up and unpacking.

Other boys played baseball and engaged in boating. Some helped Earl Williams with the picnic tables in preparation for visiting day Sunday.

'No Cooperation' Mayor Charges to Department Heads

Street Superintendent, Police Chief, City Clerk Under Lash

Menasha — Mayor W. H. Jensen criticized city departments for lack of cooperation with the mayor at a special meeting of the common council Wednesday night. The street superintendent, police chief and city clerk were included in the attack by the mayor.

The mayor started his attack on the street department. He declared that the work on Seventh street is not going fast enough. He said that 16 men and two trucks are on the job but that only three men are shoveling and nothing is done all day. By the time the men get to the job and get the lanterns lighted, it is time to go home again," he said. He pointed out that it should be a hurry-up job and charged the department is doing just the opposite.

Jensen

He also criticized the parking lines painted on Main street in the 200 block, declaring that the lines are painted at the wrong angle for proper parking. The mayor said that he had spoken to Peter Kasel, street superintendent, but only had received the reply, "I can't be everywhere."

The mayor ordered Police Chief Alex Slomski not to arrest anyone who had not parked according to the lines, even if the car is directly over the line.

"What is that?" asked the chief.

"Just As Stubborn"

"Nothing" retorted the mayor. "I'll give it to you in writing and you'll carry it out too. You're just as stubborn as the street superintendent. I'm over you."

The chief replied that he was willing to carry out the mayor's orders and the mayor replied, "You will too." They mayor then declared he wanted a closer check kept on bartenders who are operating without a license. The chief said that most of the bartenders have permits.

The mayor denied that statement and asked City Clerk Walter J. Dougherty for a list of the bartenders with permits. "I have them all at the city office," Dougherty replied, and then added, "All who have permits."

Dougherty

"You haven't half of them," the mayor retorted and threatened to bring in the district attorney on the matter. "You're working against me," the mayor told the clerk. "So is Mr. Kasel, but you'll not get anywhere. I'm running the show."

Vote to Adjourn

The council then voted to adjourn. Before the mayor started his attack the council had voted to give the park board charge of the two men stationed at the city ball park at the last council session by the aldermen. The men will be paid from the general fund though.

The mayor reported that he had received complaints from seven property owners because baseballs have been batted over the fence at the city ball park which was opened as a playground last week. The city attorney said that the city could not be held liable for a damage suit. The aldermen also instructed the park board to prepare a schedule for use of the diamond and also to peel the baselines of the diamond.

K-C Head Says Fear of What Administration Will Do Next Causing Poor U. S. Business

Neenah — Blaming this country's "deplorable business condition" on fear of what may happen in the future, F. J. Sensenbrenner, president of the Kimberly-Clark corporation, told about 1,000 employes during a safety day program last night at the Lakeview park that "industries, not knowing what measures the government will adopt, husband resources and don't expand their plants or improve their equipment."

Sensenbrenner said that the Kimberly-Clark corporation was one exception, and he informed the employes that they "haven't realized this country's business condition." He said that during the last six years, the corporation has operated at nearly 100 per cent, and during the last four months, it has operated at more than 105 per cent.

The president credited the continuance of the corporation's high rate of production to the peaceful and harmonious relations existing between the employes and management. He said that this relationship makes for standard and capacity production and combined with fair treatment, it makes for good will to the consumer.

Lauds Shattuck

After lauding S. F. Shattuck, Kimberly-Clark vice, president whom he said was the father of organized safety work in the company as well as a pioneer in spreading the gospel of safety throughout Wisconsin and the nation, Sensenbrenner discussed business conditions. He pointed out that in 1936 when the supreme court declared unconstitutional several measures of the administration business reached nearly 100 per cent, but the following year, confidence in business was shattered and a recession resulted. The election last fall helped to reestablish business so that there was some improvement, but that improvement was curtailed somewhat by the war scare in Europe.

The safety program featured talks by Ernst Mahler, executive secretary of the corporation; J. B. Catlin, superintendent of the Badger-Globe-Kimflex departments; William C. Knoelk, chairman of the Milwaukee Safety commission; and R. A. Hayward, president of the Kalamazoo, Mich., Vegetable Parchment company.

In his talk, Mahler said that Kimberly-Clark partially escaped the depression, and he said he concluded that the employes and management were jointly responsible for the escape by performing an honest service to the public which was willing to pay their wages. By creating good will with the public, the corporation was able to meet its payrolls by selling a service in the form of goods for a profit.

"Safety is Vital"

"Some discredit profit for industry," Mahler told the employes, "but I believe that profit is the basis of successful operation." He also said that although safety isn't a entity, it is a vital part of the success of production.

Catlin told the Kimberly-Clark workers and their families that individual accidents are due to carelessness and inattention — "man failure." He pointed out that 9 per cent of accidents are preventable and that 88 per cent of them are caused by man failure.

Both Hayward and Knoelk stressed the individual's responsibility in safety. Knoelk said that it is "matter of the individual and his attitude of mind," and he stressed the importance of being always alert to possibilities. He also urged that employes to carry over into the home and traffic their safety consciousness from the plants.

Lists Causes

Hayward pointed out the causes for accident, wool-gathering, inability to concentrate, fatigue, lack of interest, serious family troubles, financial, sickness, health and dissipation.

Hayward also echoed the statements of Sensenbrenner as to the country's business condition, blaming the government for the "impediments in the way of business and the uncertainties that exist. He called the administrations measures "recent experiments in perpetual motion," which have wasted the natural resources and still haven't put the country's feet on the ground.

Youth Fined for Drunken Driving

19-Year-Old Driver Arrested After Accident At Menasha

Menasha—John Furey, 19, Beloit, was fined $50 and costs with an alternative of 60 days in Winnebago county jail when he pleaded guilty of drunken driving following an accident on Garfield avenue at 5:15 Wednesday afternoon.

The program was staged under a large circus tent, and safety was the keynote, featured in addresses, sketches, booths and awards.

Sketches were staged by the maintenance and kotex departments of the Neenah mills and the Atlas mill of Appleton, while music was furnished by the Lakeview mill band, under the direction of Lester Mais, Neenah High school director, with soloists selected from the employes.

Four employes were awarded the coveted gold pins designating 25 years continuous service without an accident. C. A. Fourness, assistant general superintendent, awarded the pins to Leo Sodolski, George Roll, Alfred Doran and Valentine Strobl.

The crepe wadding manufacturing department was awarded first prize for erecting the best booth on safety, while second prize went to the paper and finishing department. The Atlas mill booth was awarded a special prize for its booth which depicted cleanliness.

William Kellett, manager of the Lakeview mill, awarded the manager's trophy to the crepe wadding manufacturing department. The trophy was awarded to the department making the best efforts for accident prevention during the year.

Thirty employes who completed the Red Cross first aid course under Lee Palmer were awarded certificates by Dr. G. B. MacLaren, the corporation's chief surgeon. They were R. Lofgren, Ed Landskron, Les Johnson, W. H. Cramer, J. Bestler, Carl Turriff, George Heckner, N. Holcomb, F. Krenger, J. Ruthven, C. Harrer, L. Hedberg, W. Stroetz, W. Discher, C. Rogers, W. Neenah Officials to Attend Hearing on Bill to Limit Taxes

Neenah — Three city officers, Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs, Clerk H. S. Zemlock and Attorney John W. O'Leary, will attend a hearing conducted by the Wisconsin League of Municipalities at Madison Friday.

The hearing will be on a bill providing for a limitation on the amount of taxes which cities can raise to $15 per $1,000, exclusive of debts. An amendment already has been introduced, limiting the amount of taxes to the 1936 assessment or an average of assessments from 1932 to 1938, whichever is the highest.

City Clerk Zemlock has calculated that in case the amendment is adopted, Neenah would have to cut its assessment 13.35 per cent, or $53,493.91, under that of the 1938 assessment.

The 1938 assessment amounted to $46,807.25, while the bonds were $45,940.72, leaving $400,866.53. The amount was divided into schools $174,036.79, city $124,033.09, and county and state $102,796.65. The 1936 assessment, exclusive of bonds, was $333,169.22, while the average from 1932 to 1938, exclusive of debts, is $347,373.12.

WEDNESDAY'S GAME
Kaukauna 5, Manitowoc 2.

THURSDAY'S GAME
Kimberly versus Little Chute at Kaukauna. (Night.)

KAUKAUNA — A pitcher who averaged two strikeouts an inning and a rain that refused to stop were successfully overcome by the Mellow Brews under the lights last night, the Kaws taking a 5 to 2 decision from Manitowoc in an abbreviated Fox Valley league contest. At the end of five and a half frames, Umpire Casey Jansen decided everyone had had enough.

Francis "Lefty" Feltman was the fellow who whiffed 10 of the Kaws. He relented long enough, however, to surrender a pair of tallies in the first inning and was nicked for the decisive three in the fifth. Aces by the visitors in the third and fourth had knotted the score.

Eddie Schuler, who struckout, 8 of the visitors, dealt out but four safeties in taking his fourth valley league victory and refused to allow more than one in any inning.

Score Two Runs

Ves Kappell led off for the Kaws with a walk, and was sacrificed along by Bob Van Drasek, at third in place of Joey Gertz. Pebs Kappell started in the outfield and Ray Diedrick was on first, with Manager Joey Vils benching himself, shaking up a Kaukauna batting order unchanged for six games. Icky Van Drasek doubled off the left field fence to score Kappell. After Carl Schuler fanned, Van Drasek counted on Wurdinger's two base hit to right.

Nothing except a drizzle developed in the second inning. With one down in the third, Feltman smacked a home run over the left field fence. His mates tied the score in the fourth, after the teams sat out an extra heavy downpour for 15 minutes between innings.

Schlei worked Schuler for a pass to lead off the fourth. Wachal pushed him around to third with a double to right. Kujawa bounced to Carl Schuler, who threw in the dirt to Martens at the plate, Schlei coming safely home. While Kujawa was stealing second Wachal thought he'd pilfer home, but Icky Van Drasek's throw to Martens nipped the Manitowoc centerfielder. Schuler struck out J. Gray and Kowalski to end the fun.

Feltman Bears Down

Feltman really bore down in the last of the fourth, striking out Martens, Leo Kappell and Eddie Schuler, but was nicked for the winning runs on four hits and an error in the fifth. Ves Kappell, first up, singled off Feltman's glove. Bob Van Drasek beat out an intended sacrifice, Kappell taking third as Feltman threw wild to first. Icky Van Drasek fanned, but Carl Schuler singled out over second to plate Kappell. While Wurdinger was being put out at first, unassisted, Bob Van Drasek counted. Schuler came home on Diedrick's one baser to left, with Diedrick out trying to stretch it into a double.

Schlei singled with one away in the sixth, but Wachal skied out and Kujawa went down on strikes. Casey then called the game.

Zeke Bonura Hits Two Homers As Giants Defeat Cubs; Win Is 6th Straight for Terrymen

CHICAGO—(AP)—With Zeke Bonura hitting his fifth and sixth homers of the season, he New York Giants opened their second western swing yesterday by defeating the Chicago Cubs 2 to 1 and supplanting last year's National league champions in fourth place.

Bill Lohrman, making his second start, held the Cubs to six scattered hits. Their only run resulted from a triple by Dick Bartell and a sacrifice fly by Bill Lee in the fifth.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Giants and lifted them back into the first division for the first time since the first week in May.

Lee yielded seven hits in absorbing his eighth defeat against five victories.

Manager Bill Terry was forced to revise his New York lineup after Shortstop Bill Jurges reported with stiff neck and head cold. Third Baseman Lou Chiozza was switched over, Mel Ott brought from the outfield to the hot corner, and Jimmy Ripple sent to rightfield.

The Giants' infield was already crippled by a finger injury to Burgess Whitehead, resulting in the stationing of Alex Kampouris at second base, and Terry announced he had recalled George Myatt from Jersey City.

Thursday — Marathon versus Coated (Postponed to Monday.)

SPORTING new uniforms, Chair Factory softballers displayed lots of spirit and life but George Fauk allowed them but five scattered hits and Wire Works hung up a 6 to 1 American league victory at Roosevelt school diamond last evening to make a 3-way tie for second place.

The only time the Chairs threatened was in the sixth frame when they scored their lone run on a walk to Burmeister, who stole second, went to third on Jaeckels' sacrifice and tallied when Gosz singled to left field.

Ken Slattery hit the longest home run of the season when, in the first half of the ninth inning, he smashed a ball which landed 50 feet beyond Roosevelt street. Previous to that, Ken had struck out three times on slow pitches.

The Wires scored in the first inning on three hits and two errors. Two more errors and a wild pitch gave the Wires another in the third and. Al Kranzusch singled, stole second and third and scored on Grearson's fly to give Wires their third run in the fourth. Two errors and a hit accounted for the fourth run in the fifth.

Fauk whiffed 14 and walked 1 while Frank Vanden Boom fanned 6, gave up 9 hits and walked none.

Physical Condition of Lewis Will be Decided

Pittsburgh — (AP) — Manager Gus Greenlee said he would have light heavyweight champion John Henry Lewis ready to submit to a physical examination here tomorrow to determine whether the 26-year-old Negro is able to defend his title.

His announcement came after the National Boxing association turned down Lewis' request the examination be made under supervision of Sam Murbarger at Indianapolis.

Michigan State commissioners and the London boxing control board have refused Lewis permission to fight because the retina in one of his eyes is detached.

The N.B.A. has indicated the championship will be declared vacant if Lewis is found physically unable to defend his title.

Girls Softball Squad Will Show

Game With Waupaca Arranged for Friday Night At Forster Diamond

Appleton girls softball team is certain the weatherman won't let down a dozen or two fair young ladies and has scheduled a contest for 8:15 Friday evening under lights at the Forster diamond. The opponent will be Waupaca girls and it will be an exhibition game.

The invaders are coming here determined to end the Appleton winning steak of three games. The Waupaca team played in the Fox Valley league last year and may rejoin for the next round of play. Jamison and Quimby will form the Waupaca battery. Both showed here several times last season.

Lorraine Kasten and Marie Salm are slated to hurl for the Appleton aggregation with Rita Merkel donning the mask and pad. Lil Oertel will cavort at first base, Evelyn Steidl at second base, Marcella Plamann at short, Mary Dawson at third, Ethel Melcher in short center, Pearl Fredricks in right field, Midge Patterson in left field, Rilla Swamp in center and Ruth Noffke will do utility work.

Sunday afternoon the Appleton girls will invade Green Bay for their third league victory.

Packer Practice Field Is Ready for Gridders

Green Bay—The Packers practice field, east of the City stadium, is to be completely enclosed this fall so that Coach E. L. Lambeau will be able to stage closed door workouts without any fear of "peeping toms."

Additional training equipment has been ordered and it won't be long now before Trainer Dave Woodward and his assistant, Bud Jorgensen, start their housecleaning in the clubhouse in order to have everything spic and span when the first squad of gridders put in appearnce on Aug. 5.

Joe Jacobs Pulls 'Gimmick' Gag but No One Listens to Him

SUMMIT, N. J. —(AP)— The hilarious "gimmick" gag was gone but not forgotten today—and listic observers were convinced that Manager Joe Jacobs' little stunt had added anywhere up to a couple of hundred thousand dollars to the gate for the Joe Louis-Tony Galento fight.

As Tony and his training troupe opened their new base in this hilly country (after moving from Asbury park's seashore atmosphere at the suggestion of the New York state athletic commission) those who can add one-and-one in the fight game figured the turbulent proceedings probably would result in some jazzy jingling of the cash register for the tussle, June 28 in Yankee Stadium.

In actual timing, the "gimmick" incident didn't last very long. Jacobs said he didn't like the way Louis flattened Max Schmeling a year ago, and wanted round-by-round examination of the Brown Bomber's gloves for protection for Galento. Major General John G. Phelan, New York athletic commission chairman, couldn't see the joke and forced "Yussel" to withdraw the charges.

Just for the records, the gimmick is a blunt metal instrument, known variously in the fight business as a "persuader" and a "slug." If and when used, it is camouflaged to resemble a portion of a boxing glove and is carried in the palm of the glove, with just enough protruding to do fearful things when bpponent's anatomy.

Jack Blackburn, Louis' trainer, laughed off Jacobs' whole statement at Joe's Prompton lakes training camp. "Only gimmick that Louis boy needs," he chuckled, "is the five-fingered one he's got hanging on the end of his arm."

Galento, himself, didn't pay much attention to the song-and-dance.

"Say, if anybody tries to use a gimmick on me," he shouted in a whisper that could be heard two blocks away, "I'll bite him."

State League Ball Clubs Again Lose To the Weatherman

Postponed games in the Northern State Baseball league got another boost last night when New London and Seymour and Green Bay and Manitowoc were rained out. At New London the squads were on the field and a good crowd was on hand when an early evening drizzle turned into a downpour and the lights had to be turned off to save the globes.

After waiting the customary 30 minutes the umpires called the battle and the boys went home. It was the fourth game Seymour has had postponed.

Tennis Class Assignments Will Appear on Sports Page Saturday; Registrations May Hit 200 Mark

BY GORDON McINTYRE

TOMORROW noon — Friday noon—is the deadline for registrants in the Appleton Post-Crescent's tennis school to be held starting Monday on the Appleton High school courts.

The final registration blank is appearing on the sport page today and if you plan to enrol the blank must be in the hands of the Sports Editor by noon Friday.

On Friday afternoon, George LaBorde, Oshkosh, who will teach the classes, and the Sports Eidtor of the Appleton Post-Crescent, will assign players to classes. The lists will be carried on the sports page Saturday. Watch for them; it will be the only opportunity to learn when you should appear for your lesson.

Classes for the men and boys are to be held on Monday and for the women and girls on Tuesday. The number of classes will be determined by the registrations.

Six From New London

Another influx of blanks this morning indicated that total registrations probably will hit the 200 mark. A feature of this morning's mail was six blanks from New London. All were from boys who no doubt have designs on high school tennis honors next season. That's only a guess but it looks like a good one.

Saturday's sports page also will carry an article about tennis, a rather complete story about what Mr. LaBorde expects to put across in his first lesson. There also will be pictures of LaBorde showing how the racquet should be handled and the position a player takes when making a shot.

The articles and the pictures will bear a lot of studying on the part of persons enroled in the course. They'll enable one to get an early grasp of good tennis and perhaps he or she can practice in the back yard or up against the side of the house and be that far ahead by Monday and Tuesday.

Instruction will be by the group method with the classes small enough to enable Mr. LaBorde to give individual instruction during the hour period. The instruction will run for a period of four weeks.

If you haven't registered, do so immediately for the blanks are due by Friday noon.

And if you have registered, watch Saturday's paper for class assignments.

Kaukauna V. F. W. to Hold 2nd Annual Carnival This Weekend

EXPECT THRILLS

Last Year's Outboard Races Featured Burning Motor, Spills

KAUKAUNA — When some 15,000 spectators line the banks of the Fox river Saturday and Sunday for the Veterans of Foreign Wars' second annual water regatta they'll be watching for events which aren't on the program. With dozens of the high powered craft scooting about the half mile course, with its hairpin turns, anything may happen. Last year there were close calls, and this summer with twice as many entries the Wisconsin Boating association's rescue boat may have its work cut out for it.

Several unslated thrills arose last summer. As a racer was coasting in to the dock his motor caught fire. The crowd feared an explosion and melted away, but the contestant succeeded in ducking the entire craft under water.

Another time a racer stalled his motor near the east end of the course and drifted toward the government dam. The rescue boat was too busy ferrying people to the anchored cruisers to notice the mishap, and although the driver was picked up by a private motorboat his own boat went over the dam.

Officials Named

The officials who will handle the regatta were announced this morning by the acquatic committee. Harold Murphy, starter; George H. Boyer, referee; Paul Stevens, clock man; Herman Breitenbach, cannon man; Fred Mikkelson, timer; Mrs. G. H. Boyer, clerk of the course; Ed Montei, rescue boat, and Charles Steele, inspector of motors, compose the staff.

Two heats are run in each class, except the midget division. Drivers race for either cash or trophies, merely a matter of preference, as all with boats in the same class compete in the same races.

The big race is Sunday afternoon for the governor's trophy, donated by Governor Julius P. Heil, who will be here to present the cup in person. The heats will be run, one at 4:20 and one at 5 o'clock. Only one driver from each state may enter the race. The governor of his state selects him.

Badgers in Light Drill As They Await Big Race

Poughkeepsie, N. Y. —(AP)— Light workouts on a choppy river were the order of the day yesterday for all the crews preparing for the intercollegiate regatta Saturday.

Washington worked the hardest with a row of about six miles in easy stages. The grind was intermingled with sprints and racing starts. The varsity exhibited a nice run to the shell for virtually the first time on the water. Experts thought the crew's blade work also was showing improvement.

California's boats, recovered from Tuesday's time trials in which the varsity was clocked in 19:33, had light workouts, featured by a few racing starts.

Navy, scheduled for a time trial, confined itself to a short drill, as did Syracuse, Columbia, Cornell and Wisconsin.

Water conditions were rough all day, but calmed down somewhat in the afternoon.

Bob Feller Gets Tenth Victory at Expense of Yanks

Allows Champs Two Hits Until Eighth: Detroit Cops Pair

NEW YORK — (AP) — Rallying three runs in the ninth inning, the Cleveland Indians gave Bobby Feller his tenth victory of the season, 4 to 2, yesterday after two unearned runs nearly took it away.

The Cleveland youngster, poised as a veteran, gave only two hits until the eighth, when two more singles, a walk and an error by Catcher Rollie Hemsley accounted for New York's runs.

After Cleveland had been given the lead in the fourth on a single and three walks by Monte Pearson, forcing in a run, Feller passed Pinchhitter Charley Keller to open the eighth. Frank Crosetti popped up, Red Rolfe singled Keller to third. Then Tom Henrich lifted a short fly to rightfield and Bruce Campbell cut off Keller at the plate only to have Hemsley muff the throw. Joe DiMaggio singled Rolfe home.

Johnny Murphy went to the mound for the Yankees in the ninth and was promptly touched for a single, a walk, a single and a double by Ben Chapman, his third hit of the day, to put Cleveland in front again.

Murphy was charged with the loss and Feller regained the victory, although removed for a pinchhitter during the rally. Lefty Al Milnar finished for Cleveland giving one hit to bring New York's total to five.

Hemsley was hit on the head by DiMaggio's bat in the first inning, but was able to continue in the game after a bit of first aid.

16 Topnotch Golf Pros Give Lesson Preceding Tourney

Toledo, Ohio —(AP)— The duffer's dream of a golf lesson comes true today at historic Inverness country club as 16 of the nation's topnotch professionals offer a "here's-how-we-do-it" prologue to the fifth annual four-ball matches.

The field, including the new national open champion, Byron Nelson, and virtually all of the big money club swingers in America, will play for $5,200 in prizes in the 126-hole match play classic which runs through Sunday.

The players have been teamed in twosomes and the schedule called for each duo to meet each other pair in 18-hole match play rounds.

For each hole a team finishes "up" it gets a plus one, while the loser gets a minus one for each lost hole. Scores of all matches are carried over, with the team having the largest plus at the finish getting the top prize of $1,000.

In today's pre-tourney clinic, each of the stars was to demonstrate his favorite shot.

Two rounds were scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

McKechnie, Reds' Boss, Had Faith in Frey; Lonnie Proves That He Was Right

BY DILLON GRAHAM

New York —(AP)— Wily Will McKechnie wrinkled his freckled nose and hooked a gnarled forefinger over it. He sat there on the hard pine bench meditating as a fierce, glaring sun slanted down on the Tampa diamond where the Cincinnati Reds were training last March.

He looked out over his spectacles, sitting pertly on the bridge of his nose, and watched Lonnie Frey scoop up a ball around second base. Young Lonnie Frey, the fellow many critics tabbed as the weak link in the Reds' chain.

"That Frey is a pretty fair ball player. You gotta remember he hadn't played much second base until I put him there regularly last season.

"Maybe some of the other teams don't think much of him. But I was pretty well satisfied. Under the circumstances he played good ball for me."

McKechnie looked up at me.

"Where am I going to find a better second-baseman? There's not so many I'd swap Lonnie for, and the clubs that own those players won't sell or trade them.

"No, I think I'll go along with Lonnie at second. He's liable to surprise you the way he plays next season. He's young and new at second base."

And Lonnie is bearing out McKechnie's prediction. Right now he's about the hottest second sacker in the National league. His sparkling play has been as important a factor in the surge of the loop-leading Reds as any other.

Paired with Billy Myers, they form one of the best double-play units in the major league. Lonnie is getting balls he wouldn't have speared a year ago. He's pivoting smartly and whipping that ball to first to cinch double plays that would have found him late last summer.

Lonnie tosses a double-play ball to Shortstop Myers.

Linus Reinhard Frey, just turned 25, has been in the big show for five years. His first trick was with Brooklyn but everything he did there seemed wrong and the furious Flatbush fans were down on him. He was happy to be traded to Chicago in 1937. Lonnie was a utility infielder with the Cubs and one of McKechnie's first moves when he came to Cincinnati in 1938 from the Boston Bees was to buy Frey.

There was a lot Lonnie didn't know about second-basing. Some of the boys started calling him the weak sister. But Lonnie was game and McKechnie had confidence in him and now Lonnie is coming into his own.

"I guess I'm playing better this year because I have more confidence," he says, with a modest smile. "Myers is a great guy to work with and then with the club going hot it sort of inspires all of us to play up to the hilt."

He's hitting above .300, quite a bit higher than last year, and driving in more than his share of the runs.

"I think my average is higher because I've become a pull hitter. McKechnie figured I could get more power into my drives, and he was right," explains Frey, who broke into baseball with Montgomery in 1932 because the depression had laid him off his clerical job with a sign company.

So keep an eye on Lonnie. Maybe Wily Will had something when he said "Lonnie is a pretty fair ball player."

Thursday—Moose versus Foresters.
Friday — Knights of Columbus versus Eagles.

Y. M. C. A. kept its Fraternal league record clean when it edged out Knights of Columbus, 10 to 8, in a ragged game at Wilson school diamond last evening. Both pitchers were wild with Greisch excelling in that department.

The Knights took a momentary lead in the first inning when Wynboom singled and came home on Hildebrand's double. Y. M. C. A. knotted the count in the second when Branchford and Furminger doubled. The Y. M. C. A. lads took a commanding lead in the third when they piled up five markers. LaMarr singled and rode along with Schwandt who hammered a home run. Captain walked and stole second. He scored when Branchford singled. Rammer singled to score Branchford.

K. of C. came back with two runs in their half of the inning when the two Verstegens scored. The "Y" squad added one in the fifth when Branchford singled and tallied on Furminger's deep double to right. The Knights came within one run of tieing the count when they chalked up three runs in their half of the fifth, scoring all of the runs without a hit.

The Y. M. C. A. came back with three runs in the seventh when Schwandt, Captain and Branchford scored. K. of C. rallied in the eighth with two runs but couldn't overcome the lead.

Greisch mounded for the winners and was touched for 12 hits while fanning 6 and walking 7. Hildebrand tossed for the losers and struck out two while walking four and being touched for sixteen safeties.

Lloyd Gatz Winner In Tennis Tourney

Lloyd Gatz, 1121 N. Durkee street, age 18, took first place in the junior division of the Erb park WPA tennis tournament yesterday. The division is for boys 15 to 18 years of age. Gatz was runner up for the past two years. John Trautman, 1425 N. Morrison street, was second this year losing to Gatz in the finals, 6-2, 4-6, 6-0.

In the Pierce park tourney Gunther Holtz took first place and Delmar Schultz second in the boys division. Bill DeLong took first place in the junior division with Bill Kohl second.

The winners will compete against Little Chute, Kimberly and Kaukauna in a county tourney this afternoon at Pierce park courts.

"Mile of Century" May be Bust as Far as Records Go

PRINCETON, N. J. —(AP)— That long awaited duel between the world's two fastest milers — Englishman Sydney Wooderson and Kansan Glenn Cunningham—may turn out to be a blooming bust as far as a new world's record goes.

"It's possible, don't you know," wee Wooderson said today, "that none of the chappies will want to set the pace. I shan't. My main purpose in coming is to beat Cunningham. Hang the time."

The British bantam—he stands 5 feet, 6 in his four-and-a-half shoes—meets Cunningham, holder of indoor mile record of 4:04.4, and three others in the sixth annual Princeton invitation mile run Saturday at the Palmer Stadium track.

"A sixty-second first quarter," smiling Sydney said, "would be a bit of all right," and might lead to a 4:03 record, but, he added wistfully, "can't say that anyone'll lead the way."

A 24-year-old solicitor Wooderson looks like a hefty off-shore breeze would blow him right through the Palmer Stadium gates.

However, his outdoor record of 4:06.4 for the mile gives plenty of evidence that somewhere in his tiny frame he has enough stuff to carry on, chin up, eyes front, and all that sort of thing.

After the race he plans to carry on right through New York's world fair, Niagara Falls, Philadelphia, maybe Washington, and maybe Ontario.

He may not get to eat any hot dogs at the Hyde Park estate of President Roosevelt but he's going to make a valiant effort to see almost as much of the "Ameddica" as his countryman, King George, did last week.

"Ameddica," he said, "is quite different than one would imagine. Not at all flat. Grassy. Quite green. Nice, really, should like to see much of it."

Brewers Revise Batting Order; Whip Red Birds

Winegarner Bats Cleanup And Gets Three Hits, One a Homer

MILWAUKEE —(AP)— A revised Milwaukee Brewer batting lineup produced six runs in the first two innings yesterday and enabled Lefty Les Willis to coast to an 8 to 4 triumph over the Columbus Red Birds.

Ralph Winegarner, shifted to the cleanup spot, uncorked three hits including a homer, while his teammates blasted out nine more off the offerings of Max Macon and Pete Hader.

Columbus reached Willis for 11 hits, but five double plays kept the portsider out of serious difficulty.

The victory evened the two-game series and elevated Milwaukee to fifth place in American association standings.

Grandma Steele, 73, Still Smacks 'Em Hard

Bristol, Conn. — (AP) — Grandma Martha Steele, 73, of East Hartford stepped to the plate, swung at a low, inside curve and slammed the ball for a 150-foot home run in a woman's softball game at a church picnic.

"They didn't think I could do it," she said at her home today between telephone calls from friends who had just heard of her Babe Ruthian wallop. "They didn't know that I used to play baseball as a girl and was better than lots of boys. Too bad the bases were empty!"

Green Bay — The other day I heard an old timer advocating a five year closed trout season in order to bring back the fine fishing which he once found in Wisconsin's cold water streams.

He was dreaming of the days when he hitched the mare to the buckboard and followed the winding river road back into the hinterlands, of the days when fishermen were few and far between and brook trout populated the rivers so thoroughly that food was scarce and they were always hungry. Rain or shine, they were always ready to bite.

There is no such thing as an unfished stream any more. Today there are twenty fishermen where years ago there was only an occasional one. Good roads cutting deep into the wild places together with the modern automobile have completely changed the picture.

Suppose we did close trout waters for five years. At the end of that time we would, no doubt, find our waters back in their old state of thirty years ago, but how long would it last? For about three weeks our hundreds of present day fishermen would have old time luck but after that we would find our trout fishing just as it is today.

The answer is that we can no longer depend on the natural spawning of trout to supply the modern demand placed upon our streams. Spawners are scarce and the percentage of their eggs hatched is small. The growth of small fry is comparatively slow in wild streams.

Our modern trout fishing tempo requires a source capable of a fast turnout of large fingerlings. Our conservation department has learned how to construct and operate rearing hatcheries that will produce five-inch fish in eight months. The trouble is we haven't enough of them.

We should have a state operated rearing hatchery on every one of our important trout streams or in every county that contains a number of trout waters. A closed season will not solve the problem.

Kimberly Ready For Little Chute

Papermakers, Hollanders Clash on Kaukauna Diamond Tonight

Kimberly — Kimberly Papermakers of the Fox River Valley league have two important games coming up within a week which should decide their chance as first half champion.

This evening they meet Little Chute at the Kaukauna ball park under the lights in a contest rained out May 28.

Sunday the Papermakers, who were scheduled to meet Kaukauna, will take the day off. They will play the Mellow Brewers at the local ball park under the lights on Wednesday evening instead. Manager Butch Thein said in addition to his regular lineup for Thursday's game, he would have Al La Duke and Paul Van Dyke in reserve.

The fact that the Kaukauna fans will be pulling for the Chuters this evening doesn't bother Manager Thein as he figures there will be plenty of Papermaker fans.

It was Little Chute which gave Kaukauna its only defeat and as a result put it one game behind the Papermakers. The Hollanders again are expected to show their best brand of ball in an effort to do the same to the Papermakers.

It will be Lefty Behr or Hofkins on the mound for the Papermakers with Buck LeMay doing the receiving. The Papermakers still have a postponed game with New London. They finish the first half of the season playing Oshkosh, June 25.

When Cookie Lavagetto, Brooklyn third-sacker, drove in 7 runs for the Dodgers the other day, his manager, Leo Durocher, prescribed a case of spring training lumbago for all the boys. Cookie had one in early April that threatened to keep him out of the Dodger lineup.

TWIN LAKE IS BACK IN CIRCULATION
By Harold Hollis

BACK in the early days of pioneer fishing in northern Wisconsin there was no finer fish producer than Big Twin lake up near Phelps. There was no town on the lake and it was big enough to furnish producing grounds for all of the species of game fish known to the Badger state. It even had and still has a neat trout stream flowing into it.

Muskellunge, wall-eyes, bronze-backed black bass, cisco, northern pike and loads of pan fish made Big Twin their home. The region got settled up a bit and the town of Hackley, which is now known as Phelps, took some of the romance out of the great lake. There were good catches taken out of Big Twin but many "city fellers" preferred to go to wilder waters.

Last year in some way the lake started to get the play again. It came through like the grand body of water it is and produced some giant muskellunge, some giant wall-eyes and a fair bunch of sizeable bass to make people wonder why they had been passing it up.

The water in the lake is crystal-clear and the type of water is varied enough for all of the game fish. There are sand bars, weed beds, drop-offs, shallows, and every type of setting. What's more there are fish and good ones.

Something in a Name

Big Twin really is big. It must be more than five miles long and from a mile to two miles wide. It connects up with Little Twin, another good body of water to the west of it and gives an unusual expanse for variety of fishing conditions.

It is seldom that an angler can find all of the game fish mentioned above in record sizes in the same lake but Big Twin produces them. It gives the exciting variety of a big muskellunge striking when the angler is working for wall-eyes or when he is trying to land a record bass. Now and then a whale of a northern pike hits like the bottom of the lake was getting into action.

If you are anywhere near Vilas County during this coming season you will be missing not a bet but several bets if you pass up Big Twin Lake. It has produced some record breakers from the pioneer days on down to the present and from what it showed for the most exacting anglers last season this year is going to add to its already enviable reputation. Big Twin has got them waiting for you.

Woodruff to Run At Los Angeles

Changes Mind Again and Grabs Plane for the West Coast

Los Angeles — (AP) — Geared for record breaking attempts, more than 200 track and field athletes wound up training paces today for the national collegiate championships as John (About Face) Woodruff flew into the scene of action to run for the last time for his university, Pittsburgh.

Six hours after "definitely" deciding to compete in the Princeton invitational, long John changed his mind—again—caught a plane and came west, trailed by the blessings of officials of the rival eastern meet.

Woodruff, center of a controversy between N. C. A. A. authorities and the Amateur Athletic Union, sponsor of the Princeton event, will be called upon to defend his 880 championship here as well as stretch his long legs in the quarter mile.

College officials, meanwhile, checked crowded entry lists and announced tomorrow's opening day would include preliminary heats in the sprints, 440, 880 and hurdle races and trials in the shot, discus, javelin and broad jump

Nine N. C. A. A. champs were on deck, headed by Miler Louie Zamperini and Pole Vaulter Loring (Bud) Day of the reigning Trojan team of the University of Southern California, gunning for its fifth straight crown.

Your Golf

BY SAM SNEAD

Canadian Open Champion

(Second In A Series)

The other day a sports writer said to me: "You're about the only real long hitter in the game who is also a good putter. How do you explain it?" The reason the average big hitter isn't a good putter is that he is accustomed to putting punch or beef into his shots and when he takes a putter for a short delicate stroke he just hasn't the light touch. I spent years as a caddy and practiced putting by the hour. I guess that is the reason I can putt well. I stand upright over the ball, with my weight evenly divided between my left and right foot. I play the ball slightly off my left foot. My feet are fairly close together. In gripping the club I have the index finger of my left hand resting over the little finger of my right hand. The putter should be brought back slowly, close to the grass, with the putter's face always in the same direction as in the address. The shorter the stroke the less becomes the margin for error. Golfers should find a putting style that is comfortable and produces accuracy. They should stick to it and develop confidence in it.

Cleveland—The Cleveland Rams National Football League team will again train at Baldwin Wallace College in Berea, O., President Thomas E. Lipscomb announces. The Rams' training quarters are only 12 miles from the Cleveland downtown district and the facilities at Baldwin Wallace are such that Cleveland officials decided to return there, instead of establishing a camp in the north, as six other teams have done this year. The Ram squad has been ordered to report Aug. 14.

Chuters and Band Will Cheer Team at Kaukauna Tonight

Little Chute—Around three hundred fans are expected to accompany the local A. A. baseball team to Kaukauna tonight to cheer them to a win over the Kimberly Papermakers, Fox River Valley league leaders, in their meeting at the Electric City park. Besides the fans, the Little Chute municipal band will be out to add color to the fracas. And with Kaukauna adding its moral support to the locals, a hot time is expected.

The local management almost had a nervous breakdown when Johnny Call was reported ill but he will be on the hill tonight. The team has been holding drills every evening. Ory Bongers is especially anxious to show his former mates that he has found his batting eye and has a better than .400 average. Another member showing improvement is Moose Van Dyke at the initial sack. He is a classy first sacker but was rather weak at the plate up to this season. He now takes his cuts like a big leaguer.

Only One Pro Left in Women's Golf Tourney

St. Louis —(AP)— The last of four professionals, Helen Dettweiler of Washington, D. C., meets Shirley Ann Johnson of Chicago, conqueror of Mrs. Opal S. Hill, today in the quarter-finals of the Women's Western open golf tournament.

Two Illinoisans clashed in the second match of the upper bracket. Dorothy Foster, Springfield music teacher who dropped a professional the second day in a row, was paired with the 15-year-old "baby" sensation, Jeanne Cline of Bloomington.

Miss Foster eliminated Virginia Pepp of St. Louis and previously had rubbed out Mrs. Helen Hicks Harb, former national champion. Miss Cline advanced with a victory over Mrs. Lillian Zech of Chicago.

In the lower bracket, Ellamae Williams of Chicago drew as her opponent Mrs. Sam Israel of New Orleans in one match while in the other Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, the defending champion, met Phyllis Buchanan of Denver.

DUST IN THE AIR

We may see a cloud of dust above the ground and say, "The air is dusty." The fact is that air is dusty even when we do not see the dust. Government experts have made "counts" in hundreds of places, and have found how many bits of dust there are in a small amount of air, each hour of the day and each day of the year.

Mayon volcano in eruption

The air over a high mountain seems clear and pure, but it has at least a little dust in it.

A little dust does no harm, but a great deal of dust is not good for health. It is likely to hurt the lungs, and also keeps part of the sunshine from reaching people.

"Where does the dust come from?" we may ask, and the answer is that it comes from many things. Winds whip it up from the sandy desert, also from dry soil in fields. Volcanoes send out clouds of ash, and the ash floats about as dust. Meteors burn to cinders, and turn into dust. Worst of all, in some places, chimneys belch forth great clouds of smoke, and the smoke turns into dust.

It is interesting to look back on old records of dust from volcanoes. In 1783 there was a big eruption in Iceland, and the winds blew toward Scotland. So much dust fell there that Scottish farmers blamed it for the poor crops they had that year.

In 1812 a volcano in the West Indies sent millions of tons of dust into the air. A great deal of it fell on the island of Barbados, 100 miles distant. In fact the fall of dust on Barbados was estimated at 3,000,000 tons. It was called "May dust" because it fell in May.

Three years later, the Tomboro volcano in the Dutch East Indies broke loose. We are told it sent cubic miles of ashes and other material into the air, making dust fall on an area of over 1,000,000 square miles.

Many persons living today remember the strangely beautiful sunsets of the years from 1883 to 1885. Those sunsets seem to have been due to dust which arose from Krakatoa, a volcano on the western side of the Pacific. Winds blew the dust "around the world."

Although air all around the earth has dust, it fills the air far more in cities than it does in the country. The reason is found in smoking chimneys. We shall go into the question of smoke tomorrow.

Juneau, Alaska — (AP) — Interior Alaska is a regular "paradise" as a resting ground for migrating birds, Field Naturalist J. J. Goldman of the Bureau of Biological Survey said here on his annual trip north to study migration of ducks and geese. Comparative newcomer to the films, Miss Laraine Day won her first important assignment as the feminine lead in "Sergeant Madden." A native of Utah, she came to the films by way of the Long Beach Players Guild. Her latest endeavors were in "Calling Dr. Kildare."

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — Norma Shearer's fight to get out from under that publicity-imposed title, "The First Lady of Hollywood," seems to be on the level. Not long ago, I editorialized via the air on her refusal to be interviewed for a story in a magazine of enormous circulation because the editor insisted on vesting her with that title. Now— s'help me —she is chucking overboard a clause in her Metro contract which guarantees that her name will be featured above that of any other woman in her pictures, and stipulating that both Joan Crawford and Rosalind Russell shall be given equal billing with her in "The Women."

Fidler

Such distinctions may seem a bit silly to outlanders, but to anyone who knows the tremendous importance Hollywoodites attach to the size of type and the position of a name on the billboards, Norma's self-abnegation is amazing. She is voluntarily discarding a distinction earned by years of successful work —a distinction most stars would guard as ferociously as a lioness guards her cubs.

And I think that Norma, besides displaying a remarkable sense of fairness to Joan and Rosalind, whose foles, as a matter of fact, are as important as her own, is once again proving herself the shrewdest lady who ever signed a million dollar contract. That "First Lady" business has put her on the spot, multiplied many times, in her case, the danger that every star faces when seen in a not-too-good picture. As the "First Lady of Hollywood" she had to achieve perfection in every role —as a star, claiming no greater distinction than that accorded all important stars, she is entitled to an occasional slip. I think Norma is writing an insurance policy on her professional longevity.

CUFF NOTES: Jean Muir, who left Hollywood in a huff some seasons ago, is back in town to discuss a screen comeback . . . Telegraph bills are a major item in Jack Oakie's budget since that tiff with Venita Varden and her departure for New York—he's asking her to come back home. . . Success of re-issue of William S. Hart's "Tumbleweed" has given Bill new ideas to return to makeup . . . These night amblings of Paulette Goddard and Douglas Montgomery are endorsed by Charles Chaplin, who doesn't socialize and work simultaneously.

MUTTERINGS: If someone filmed the off-screen gags of Young Doug Fairbanks, who refers to them as "practical jokes," the result would be no-bell comedy. Frantic urge: to present Luise Rainer with a pair of military brushes. Wonder if Hollywood will ever get tired of honoring distinguished visitors who reward hospitality with gibes? Imaginable hilarious evening: sitting-by while Andy Devine takes a yodeling lesson. Wondering muse; why do I always snicker when thinking of George Raft's pained remark, "Some people seem to have the idea I've stayed in this business because of the money?"

The WORLD of STAMPS

Below, folks, is that much-talked-of U. S. stamp commemorating the centennial anniversary of the beginning of baseball. A purple 3-center, it was released June 12, at Cooperstown, N. Y., which is called by some the birthplace of the game. The design shows kids at play on a sandlot.

It's doubtful if any stamp in America's history has been ballyhooed so thoroughly as this one Early reports indicate that the first-day sale broke all records. Observers at Cooperstown estimated beforehand that more than a half-million covers would be handled.

In an unprecedented move, postal officials in Washington cooperated with youngsters wanting these covers. All postmasters were instructed to assist children by accepting from them self-addressed envelopes, plus three cents.

Postmasters forewarded these envelopes to Cooperstown by official mail. There stamps were placed on the envelopes, cancelled and the envelopes mailed back to the youths by ordinary mail.

Unfriendly Africans

Philatelists who have a section reserved for Union of South Africa in their albums probably are aware of the coolness with which postal authorities there regard collectors. This aloofness was emphasized recently when officials issued this statement:

"It is not a part of post office functions to assist in the manufacture of special covers, such as, for example, 'first day' or 'special flight' covers, and requests to affix stamps to these covers will not be considered. Postage stamps are issued and sold primarily for the prepayment of postage—and not for philatelic purposes."

Mort Sport Stamps

The United States, in issuing a baseball stamp, is not alone in giving recognition to athletics. At Kaunas, capital of Lithuania, European basketball championships were determined in May. Now Lithuania has issued three stamps commemorating the matches.

Inscribed on these unheralded semi-postals are "3 Europos Krepsinio Pirmenybes" (meaning "Third European Basketball Championships") and "Kaunas 21-28-V-1939" (meaning "Kaunas, May 21-28, 1939). The surtax will be used for national athletic and gymnastic equipment.

On the deep brown 15-cental plus 10c (illustrated above) a player is shown tipping a basketball into the basket, on the dark-green 30c plus 15c, two opposing players fight for the ball near the basket; and on the purple 60c plus 40c, a hand is seen tipping a ball into a basket. Arched around the ball are the flags of the 16 nations that participated.

Coming Up

Here are some of the issues that have been announced:

1. Belgium—A new Railroad Congress set in five values.
2. Estonia—A 2-krown stamp commemorating the beginning of the town, Bad Pernau, 100 years ago.
3. Vatican City—A limited coronation issue of stamps bearing portraits of the new pope, Pius XII.
4. Bulgaria—A new sports set of five values, announced for July 20.
5. Monaco—Ten-value set of former rulers, with one showing a picture of Monaco. Only 20,000 will be issued.
6. Rumania—Set of three values, for national defense.

"BUTCHERS'" CHOICE

"Give me the doctor a doctor calls when he is sick," says the wise woman. Then why not eat Steaks such as the butcher selects for his own meals? Let us cut you such a steak — tender, juicy, flavory to a degree you may have been thinking was lost to modern meats.

HERE'S why Lipton's is America's most popular tea:

1. World-Famous Flavor—smooth, full, rich, delicious.
2. Tender Young Leaves—and luscious, flavorful buds—give extra fragrance and bouquet.
3. Distinctive Blend—with choice teas selected by Lipton's own specialists.
4. Economical—you use less Lipton's per cup—it's so rich in flavor.

New York—(AP)—Stocks generally sang a losing refrain in today's market and most buyers walked out on the concert.

Losses ran to a point or so for leaders after an indifferent start. One or two isolated set-backs of around 4 were observed. At that, a handful of issues managed to finish on the upside. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

Brokers, always hunting for a scapegoat, were disposed to put the blame for the downward slant partly on renewed apprehension over foreign affairs, principally the far eastern British-Japanese crisis which, some feared, might conceivably involve the United States if not adjusted soon. In addition, thought was given the latest German-Slovak developments with the idea these had the makings of a New European explosion. Securities at London dipped, steadied at Amsterdam and were irregular in Paris.

On the home front hopes persisted for constructive congressional action on tax revision, railway relief legislation and other measures advocated as stimulants for industry. Business news, on the whole, was still fairly promising.

Bonds trailed stocks on the backstretch. Commodities were uneven.

Wheat at Chicago was off ¼ to ⅜ of a cent a bushel. Corn was unchanged to down ⅛. Cotton, in late transactions, was 10 to 20 cents a bale in arrears.

Favorable Crop Reports Cause Wheat Selling

Sagging Trend Is in Face Of Expanded European Purchases

Chicago—(AP)—Wheat prices turned lower today largely because of selling based on upward revision of private Kansas crop estimates and favorable crop reports from Canada. The moisture situation in the Canadian prairie provinces was reported to be better than normal over most of the belt.

The sagging trend of wheat quotations, after an early upturn, was in the face of greatly expanded European purchasing of North American grain, mostly Canadian, and improved domestic mill demand. Export sales of North American wheat were estimated at 2,000,000 bushels.

Receipts were: wheat 16 cars, corn 153, oats 31.

Wheat closed ¼-⅜ lower than yesterday, July 73¼-73, September 73⅜-½; corn unchanged to ⅜ down, July 49½, September 50¼-⅜; oats ¼-½ down.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acid waste in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be over-worked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of poisonous waste.

When functional kidney disorder permits poisonous matter to remain in the blood, you won't feel well. This may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. If you have trouble with frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning, there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
